The blasts about dawn in Utah and Eastern Nevada Sunday touched off a widespread search and investigation by FBI agents. National Guard troops moved in to guard installations throughout the area.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—55 minutes later, crippled a microwave relay tower at Cedar Mountain, 20 miles farther east in Utah.

The unmanned stations transmit radio waves up to 30 miles on a line of sight basis—coast to coast, border to border.

Automatic Equipment
The three blasts snipped out a portion of this telephonic backbone, but automatic equipment immediately shunted messages to other towers.

Sunday Blue Laws Valid, Court Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today upheld constitutionality of Sunday blue laws.

Chief Justice Warren delivered the court's decision.

The tribunal ruled in cases specifically applying to blue laws of Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

Blue laws, which restrict Sunday activities in many states, originated in Colonial America to compel observance of the Sabbath.

Lawyers attacking the statutes said they have become "a lethal weapon in the economic war of competition" among retailers. The lawyers also argued the laws were religious statutes, enforcement of which violated the U. S. Constitution.

Owe $236.8 Million
WASHINGTON (UPD)—The Internal Revenue Service is cracking down on thousands of businessmen who fail to turn over to Uncle Sam on time the taxes they withhold from employees' pay envelopes.

At the end of 1960, according to the service, 268,396 employers owed the government $236.8 million—nearly $900 each on the average.

By midmorning today the figures showed traffic deaths were occurring at a rate of 4.3 an hour. This is the same average hourly rate maintained throughout 1960 when 38,200 traffic fatalities were counted for the year.

The 38,200 total, however, embraces deaths from injuries weeks and months after the date of the accident. The current count covers only deaths over the holiday period.

Woman Knifed Dozen Times by 14-Year-Old

Rural Clintonville Road Scene of Ambush by Boy

CLINTONVILLE — Mrs. Perl Behnke, 53, 183 E. Madison St., was the victim of a knife attack as she walked to her son's home along a country road Sunday afternoon.

A 14-year-old boy leaped upon her from behind some trees along the road and stabbed her a dozen times with a jack knife. He fled when the knife blade broke from the handle and lodged near her spine.

Dispute loss of blood, she was able to stagger a half mile to her son's home where police and medical help were summoned.

"Fair" Condition
She was treated at Clintonville Community Hospital, then transferred to St. Elizabeth Hospital, Appleton, where her condition was described as "fair-to good" this morning.

Undersheriff George Meating and Police Chief James Beggs questioned a family living near the scene of the attack. They found the 14-year-old filling a power mower with gasoline. Although he denied any knowledge of the attack he was taken to the hospital where his victim identified him.

He told authorities he helped his family plant cucumbers and when they returned home he was identified.

Added $3 Million Sought
The requested increase amounted to about $3 million.

The committee action was included in a $751.3-million bill financing the State and Justice departments, the USIA, the federal courts and the Civil Rights Commission for the fiscal year starting July 1.

All the agencies except the Civil Rights Commission were cut. The Civil Rights Commission, which expires next November under the current law, was not included.

Declines to Comment on Veto Possibility if GOP Legislature Enacts Levy

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Gov. Gaylord Nelson today refused to say what he will do if the Republican legislature sends him a sales tax measure as part of a tax-revision package, but said he will demand that the lawmakers take a roll call vote on his own tax program which features higher personal income taxes.

The Democratic governor met reporters at his weekly news conference this morning and parried questions for an hour on the biggest issue in state politics. The Republican legislative leadership will assemble here Wednesday morning with caucus instructions to draw up a substitute for Nelson's bill.

The alternative measure will include a sales tax.

What is uncertain is whether the governor, who formerly took a public position against sales taxation, will sign or veto such a bill. The alternative might be a financial stalemate at a time when the state treasury faces a deficit of more than $60 million.

Willing to Gamble
The leaders of the legislature are apparently willing to gamble that the governor will sign a sales tax if presented with other concessions including an income tax withholding law.

"I've got my own bill down there," Nelson said as reporters bore in with their question this morning, "and I'm not going to sell it out."

But the governor did say that if he gets a sales tax bill on his desk he will insist that the state department of taxation make a report on the tax burden distribution that would result from it.

"So People Can See . . ."
He said he also wants a roll call in the legislature on his own bill which includes, besides higher income tax rates, the pay-check deduction method of income tax collection, a substantial redistribution of local shares of present state taxes, higher bank taxation, more tobacco taxation and other features.

"There should be a roll call so the people can see where they stand," the governor asserted.

Nelson said he is not optimistic about an early adjournment of the legislature, although Republican leaders have set early July as a target date. The governor resolutely refused to be drawn into the explosive controversy about the control of the University of Wisconsin medical school.

Campus Power Struggle
He said he has been asked by at least a dozen persons to intervene in the quarrel between Dean John Bowers of the medical school and his surgery department staff but that he feels he can make no useful contribution and might harm the university by taking part in the campus-power struggle.

The responsibility for personnel control at the university is lodged with the university president and its regents, he said with a trace of annoyance, but he made no reply when he was asked what higher authority may be responsible if the university managers are incapable of resolving the most violent internal battle within the big institution in recent times.

GOP Candidate Wins in Texas

Tower First of Party Elected in State to Senate

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The victory of John G. Tower, the first Republican senator to be elected by Texas voters, today left gleeful GOP workers thankful they rang so many doorbells and Democrats wondering what went wrong.

Tower, 35, a former college professor, won Saturday's special U.S. Senate race by 8,000 votes over William A. Blakley, a Democrat who holds the Senate seat on an interim appointment.

He had 444,815 votes or 50.45 per cent of the 881,630 votes counted to Blakley's 436,815. Approximately 7,600 votes were yet to be reported.

Delegates Jailed
LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo — Katanga's captive President Moise Tshombe was brought by riverboat to Leopoldville today guarded by some 200 troops.

Then he was whisked away to a military camp where his old enemy, Patrice Lumumba, once was held before he was slain.

Tshombe, taken prisoner when he tried to walk out of the Coquilhatville conference of Congolese politicians, smiled faintly as he stepped on to the Leopoldville docks.

His shoulders hunched but otherwise he appeared in good health. He even managed to wave to the crowd clustering behind rows of armed guards.

Tshombe was hustled in to a blue sedan then driven five miles through jeering crowds to Camp Binda on the outskirts of town.

The Katanga delegates who had accompanied him to Coquilhatville were taken off to the local Leopoldville jail.

With Tshombe was his foreign minister, Everiste Kimba.

The riverboat which brought them to Leopoldville down the wide Congo River from Coquilhatville was loaded with Congolese troops of President Joseph Kasavubu's central government.

Tshombe was dressed in the same grey suit he wore when arrested at Coquilhatville airport a month ago.

Tshombe is accused by the Congolese central government of various crimes of high treason which, if he is found guilty, could carry the death penalty. He showed no

Appleton 'Y' Plans Summer Swim Program

Registration Set For Class Starting On June 12

Appleton YMCA is taking registrations for its summer swimming programs which begin June 12.

There will be free swimming classes for non-YMCA members mornings from June 12 to 24. Classes for boys 8 years old and over will meet Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday mornings; those for girls will be Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings. There will be five 45-minute sessions each day.

The Pint Size Swim Program, for 4- to 8-year-olds accompanied by adults or older brothers or sisters, include three six-session courses, with classes twice weekly. They will meet from June 26 to July 13, July 17 to Aug. 3 and Aug. 7 to 24. Girls will swim on Monday and Wednesday mornings and boys on Tuesday and Thursday mornings.

Pint Size Class

A special once-a-week pint size class for boys and girls will meet from July 7 to Aug. 11. These groups will meet for 45 minutes each morning.

Included in the regular swim program are classes for boys on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons and evenings June 12 to 24, and Saturday mornings July 1 to Sept. 5; girls, Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons June 12 to Sept. 5; junior and senior high school girls Monday and Wednesday evenings June 12 to Sept. 5, and men and high school boys afternoons daily and Tuesday and Thursday evenings June 12 to Sept. 5.

Meet Monday

New beginners' classes for women meet Monday and Wednesday evenings for eight weeks beginning June 12. The regular women's classes will continue at the same time until Sept. 5.

Families may swim Saturday evenings.

Don Kollath, LaCrosse State College graduate, and Tom Klenz, a Wisconsin state senate for an YMCA associate youth director, will teach the pint size swimmers. Dorothy Buesing and Alicia VanDyke are in charge of women's swimming.

Road Engineer Dies at Chilton

CHILTON — Kenneth Daun, 27, 221 Manhattan St., Chilton, a Wisconsin State Highway Department engineer, died about 10:30 p.m. Saturday after being ill about five months. Daun underwent throat surgery Saturday morning.

A 1952 graduate of Chilton High School, Daun was employed by the highway department for about six years. He was born here April 21, 1924.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Ebenezer Evangelical and Reformed Church with burial in Hillside Cemetery. He is survived by his widow, two sons, two daughters, three brothers, one sister, his parents and grandparents.

Free Admission to State Parks May End as Senate Votes Fee

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — This may very well be the last season of free admission to the increasingly popular state parks of Wisconsin.

The heavy vote of approval in the Wisconsin state senate for an admissions fee system to enable the more generous financing program of the heavily burdened parks is believed to forecast a vote of concurrence in the state assembly. Because Gov. Nelson has listed such a bill prominently in his own list of preferred legislation since he has held his office, the assembly vote will write into law the plan for a two dollar seasonal ticket plan and a daily admission charge of 50 cents as an alternative.

Such a measure is expected to produce at least $500,000 a year, according to recent traffic counts at the parks, all of which would be dedicated to park improvements including sanitary facilities, camping spaces, and actual physical enlargement of the park areas.

The idea of a park sticker—to be attached to the windshield of autos—has been offered in the legislature during several sessions. Two years ago it narrowly missed approval in the state senate. The plan has been successfully applied in other states.

Vote Exemption
Senators voted an exemption from the sticker requirements during the winter season, largely on behalf of ski groups and others interested in using park facilities.

to the support for the special parks financing measure this year. Hitherto the parks' slender budget was drawn from the general fund—which now faces a huge deficit—and from the state fish and game fund which is held to be inadequate for direct conservation purposes by the conservation department.

Only significant remaining opposition to the sticker enactment comes from legislators who have state parks within their political districts, and is thought to represent the opposition of neighborhood residents to the unrestricted use of the state-financed recreation centers they have traditionally enjoyed.

Teaching Nun At Chilton Dies at Waupun
CHILTON — Sister M. Tilberta, O.S.F., 77, the fourth grade teacher at St. Mary Parochial School here, died about 4:45 p.m. Sunday at Waupun Memorial Hospital. She was stricken with a coronary seizure Wednesday.

Sister Tilberta was a School Sister of the Order of St. Francis for 30 years. This was her first year on the Chilton school faculty.

A native of Tekong, Ill., Sister Tilberta is survived by two brothers and two sisters: one, Sister M. Kostka, O.S.F., also is on the St. Mary faculty.

Funeral services will be Wednesday at the Mother House of St. Joseph Convent, Milwaukee, with burial in Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

GOP Victor in Texas Looks To Long Tenure

Says He'll Stay In Senate as Long As People Want Me

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP)

A young Republican college professor said today he will keep the former senate seat of Democratic Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson as long as the people of Texas will have me.

John G. Tower, 35, is the first Republican ever elected by Texas voters to serve in the U.S. Senate.

He won over Democrat William A. Blakley and most of the big names in Texas Democratic circles with the help of Sen. Barry Goldwater, conservative Republican from Arizona.

Close Friends
"Goldwater and I are close personal friends," Tower said today. "I believe basically in the same things he believes in. But I am not joining any faction of the Republican party because I don't believe the party has factions."

Tower expects to take his seat by June 15, two days after the state election board certifies that he won by an 8,000-vote margin in the runoff race in which 881,630 voted.

"It would be the function of the presiding officer of the senate to swear me in," Tower said. He added, however, that perhaps Johnson would not be available to fulfill that function. In that case, Sen. Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., president pro tem of the senate, would do the job.

Tower plans to fly to Washington Wednesday to attend a dinner honoring former President Eisenhower.

Med School Head Said to Have Resigned

Dr. John Bowers Has 'No Comment' on Story He Quit UW

MADISON (AP) — Dr. John Z. Bowers has refused to comment on reports that he has resigned as head of the University of Wisconsin Medical School, but a faculty member indicated the dean has submitted his resignation.

Persistent reports say that Bowers handed his resignation to Dr. Conrad A. Elvehjem, university president, apparently because of Bowers' failure to win approval of his selection of a new head for the Department of Surgery.

Bowers nominated Dr. John Cole, 49, associate professor of surgery at Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio. Members of the department, acting under faculty by-laws, blocked the appointment and recommended one of the staff, Dr. Anthony Curreri, for the appointment.

Name Committee

In a compromise announced earlier in the month, Bowers named a three-man committee to take over the administrative authority of the department. The committee picked Curreri as its chairman.

Asked Sunday about his resignation, Bowers said, "No comment," and added, "I really can't say anything. The information will have to come from the university president. That's academic policy."

The original reports, published by the Capital Times of Madison, said that Bowers and five department heads gave notice they were quitting. One of supervisors, Prof. James Crow of the Department of Medical Genetics, issued a statement Sunday in which he said:

Hasn't Resigned
"I have not resigned, although I support the position of Dean Bowers in the controversy. In my opinion, Dean Bowers has worked hard and effectively to improve the Medical School and I hope very much his resignation will not be accepted."

Elvehjem has declined comment on the possible resignations. However, on Sunday the UW president said he has a "personnel problem" which he may submit to the Education Committee of the University Board of Regents, scheduled to meet here next Monday.

Elvehjem stressed that because any issue he placed before the members would deal with personnel, the committee meeting would be closed.

On Saturday night, 75 medical school students, interns and resident physicians marched on the president's house in an orderly demonstration. They presented Elvehjem with a statement saying the Medical School would suffer "a critical blow" by the resignation of Bowers.

County Credit Union Group Elects Officers

Miss Clarice Stake has been elected president of the Outagamie County Chapter of Credit Unions. She is a member of the unit at the Aid Association for Lutherans.

Other new officers are Kurt Koleitzke, Appleton Wire Works chapter, vice president; Peter Leithen, Kimberly chapter, secretary; and John Vanden Heuvel, Elm Tree chapter treasurer.

The county meeting was attended by 181 delegates from member units. Host credit union for the meeting was the group at Curtis Plywood New London.

R. N. Reinke, a member of the Appleton Appliance Co. unit, was nominated to be a league director. Directors will be elected at Wisconsin Credit Union League convention in Milwaukee on Sept. 16.

I want to get the benefit of their wisdom," he said.

He will return to this north Texas city before the Memorial Day weekend and right after the holiday he, his wife, and their three young daughters will head for Washington for good.

"My election shows that the people of Texas have reacted against being dictated to by professional politicians," Tower said.

Youth Receives Severe Cuts in Plunge Over Bank

Gerald E. Heckel, 20, route 3, Appleton, received severe head cuts and bruises when his car left the road and wound up in a creek on State 96, just east of Little Chute, early Saturday morning.

Heckel's car went 306 feet on the shoulder, crossed the road and went 75 feet on the other shoulder. Then it went 84 feet off the road and plunged over an embankment into a shallow creek.

Heckel thought he might have fallen asleep, police said. Three girls in another car told police Heckel passed them on the right just before the crash.

He was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by Larry's Ambulance.

Iola Crash Kills Van Dyne Man

Waupaca County Accident Raises Holiday Toll to 9

Harry W. Anthes, 57, Van Dyne, became the ninth victim of the Memorial Day weekend traffic when his car left State 49 about 7 1/2 miles north of Iola and crashed into a large rock about 12.15 a.m. today.

The Memorial Day toll raised the state fatality list for the year to 303 compared with 281 on this day last year.

Anthes was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. R. H. Wiley of Iola, deputy Waupaca County coroner. He said Anthes died of head and neck injuries.

Wreck Discovered
The wreck was discovered by Kenneth Bergen and Lawrence Moe, both of route 1, Iola.

According to Waupaca County police, Anthes' car went off the road at a curve, traveled 132 feet parallel with the road then 133 feet on the road before it swerved back into the ditch for 51 feet before striking a large rock. The car traveled another 360 feet into a gully and stopped.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The holiday period began at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight Tuesday. Last year during a three-day holiday period 11 lives were lost. The last four-day Memorial Day weekend was in 1958 when 17 persons were killed on state highways.

Other Deaths
Eugene Furlong, 23, of Dickeyville, died in a Dubuque, Iowa, hospital Sunday of injuries received on Saturday. He was thrown out of his car after it went out of control on a highway interchange about six miles south of Dickeyville in Grant County.

A Platte, S.D. woman, Mrs. Arthur Heyder, died in a hospital at Prairie du Chien Sunday of injuries suffered in a two-car crash near Prairie du Chien Saturday. Mrs. Heyder, about 70, and her husband were returning to Bos-cobel for a class reunion. Heyder and three persons in the other car were injured.

Victims listed earlier were: John Serlach, 45, Route 1, Saukville.

Mrs. Ruth Hemdorf, 57, Route 1, Grafton.

Art Besse, Ashland.

Ray Thurn, Chicago.

Shall We Shoot for the Moon?

President Kennedy has asked Congress to join him in leading the nation in an all-out space program. He has called upon Congress to provide $1.5 billion now and billions more later. The first objective would be to put a man on the moon and return him safely to earth.

The space program has been a problem for the Kennedy administration. The President's address to Congress indicates the administration has decided that the best course is to proceed as rapidly as possible. The problem, as it was considered by the administration in the past, has been stated in somewhat this fashion:

For approximately $30 billion the United States could, within a few years, build a booster which would rival and perhaps surpass the big boosters used by Russia to send a man in orbit around the earth. There is a chance that billions could be poured into this machine only to learn that it was totally useless militarily. So the question is, can America afford to neglect this opportunity while the Russians go on improving their space program and perhaps perfecting the techniques of guiding and controlling satellites until their rocket or space ship might become the controlling military factor in the world?

Most Americans who consider the problem as stated will agree that $30 billion, or any number of billion dollars, is not worth saving if the cost of doing it is to permit the Russians to gain control of the free world. What good is $30 billion in American money if this nation must live under the control of a Russian astronaut floating idly in the skies in a huge ship armed with atomic bombs.

The President has not stated his request for funds in those terms. He is asking for 1 1/2 billion now and says that the program to shoot a man to the moon and return him safely to earth will require probably 10 years and may cost up to $7 to $9 billion in the next five years. In the meantime, the present program, which also is costing billions must be continued. The first year, if Congress provides the money, the President's program calls for spending $679 million above the cost of the present program to start the job of shooting a man to the moon, developing a nuclear rocket, accelerating use of the communications satellites, and speeding up a satellite world-wide weather observation program.

The President is calling upon Congress not for an appropriation of $1.5 billion. That amount, he says, will be necessary for the first year, but he adds, "I am asking Congress and the country to accept a firm commitment to a new course of action — a course which will last for many years and carry very heavy costs — an estimated $7 to $9 billion additional over the next five years. If we were to go only half way, or to reduce our sights in the face of difficulty, it would be better not to go at all."

Thus the President is asking not so much for an appropriation now as for a commitment to a program. As the problem has been stated, and as evidently the administration believes, Congress and the people must now decide whether they are willing to spend billions — 7, 9, 15, 20, 30 — or more which may prove to be utterly useless militarily but which may prove to be the only possible way we can remain free. If the choice is between saving $30 billion or waking up three or four years from now to the fact that we are completely under the domination of the Communists there can be little doubt about the decision.

Direction From the Grave

A few weeks ago the Board of Regents of the University of Wisconsin accepted a bequest of $100,000 for "worthy and needy Gentile Protestant students." The decision was not unanimous and provoked some discussion about discrimination. Now the Governor's Commission on Human Rights has suggested that the regents review their decision.

A glance at scholarships and grants of various colleges shows a high percentage of "discriminatory" awards. There are foolish ones, prejudiced ones and ridiculous ones that seldom are given because qualified students are hard to find. Some restrict the money to surviving members of missionary families or seventh sons of seventh sons. Others are aimed for students in a particular field of study or from a particular community. Some are restricted for Negro or Jewish students. These seldom have been questioned or labeled discriminatory.

But, as the Governor's Commission points out, there are legal aspects to the matter when the institution is a state one. A section of the statute governing the University of Wisconsin states that "no sectarian or partisan tests shall ever be allowed or exercised. . . in the admission of students thereto or for any purpose whatever." A New Jersey Supreme Court decision ruled in a similar case that Protestant and Gentile restrictions were discriminatory but that "good moral repute, not given to gambling, smoking, drinking or similar acts" was not.

An observer might suggest that the number of awards made to boys with muscles or a particular athletic ability is discriminatory when one considers the fact that the intent of college is mental education. Women at least might protest the discrimination since athletic scholarships are not open to them.

But the suggestion of the Governor's Commission that the whole matter of accepting restrictive awards be reviewed by the regents is a good one. Donors of monies to educational institutions should be aware that the restrictions they list make the grants hard to administer and fail to take into account the needs of the schools or of future generations of students. Obviously anyone has the right, within lawful limits, of doing what he will with his money. But trying to manage the affairs of the future from the grave has always been pretty silly and definitely ineffective.

How About Chickenfranks and Eggfurters

Everyone knows what has been accomplished in recent years in the marketing of instant coffee and package cakes. A great many other articles of food are on the market although they are less popular but appear to be gaining rapidly. For instance, great strides have been made in the marketing of powdered potatoes. Powdered milk also has made tremendous gains.

The experts, however, looking about for new worlds to conquer, point out there should be great opportunity for food processors to develop convenience products made from eggs and poultry.

A recent Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation publication declares it is possible such items as instant scrambled eggs, instant French toast, prepared egg loaf and many similar items will be on the market shortly. It is pointed out Wisconsin produces more eggs than are consumed in the state and thus represents a good area for manufacturers of convenience egg products to test their skills.

In 1959, eggs ranked third among all farm products in providing cash income in the United States. The United States Department of Agriculture reports that egg producers marketed 64 million eggs in 1959. If the projected population reaches 243 million in 1975 as estimated, about 48 billion eggs will be required. This will be a jump of 20 billion eggs or approximately 31 per cent. Current surveys indicate that three out of five individuals in the United States eat eggs regularly for breakfast. Most of the homemakers reached by the survey rate eggs as one of the most healthful common breakfast foods.

A large manufacturer of grocery products reports that 70 per cent of its volume is now accounted for by new products developed since the end of World War II. It is estimated that one-fourth to one-third of the total food products revenue today comes from items that have been introduced within the last 10 years. We are a nation of package food users. The success of package food producers in other fields, as well as the rapid advance that has been made in the "factorization" of the poultry industry, insures both a stable supply of eggs and dairy products almost without limit for the manufacturing grocer.

The fact there has been a 160 per cent increase in the number of married women working since 1940 indicates there will be a good market for any convenience food that can be successfully developed. Among the items mentioned are frozen French toast, frozen fried eggs, orange egg or pep cocktail, egg dip, egg Cantoneese and egg loaf. Others are chickenfranks and chicken bologna which are said to be distinctive new products which may be used in the same way as the conventional frankfurter and bologna. Both products are made from fowl and can be served to all age groups. Contributing to the information on the production and marketing of such food have been research groups in university, government and independent laboratories. It appears there are better times ahead for both the farmer and the poultry consumer.

If He Doesn't Cash The Check, It May Throw Books Way Off

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — S.

Sgt. James L. Allen of nearby Lockbourne Air Force Base has received a government check that may not even be worth his while cashing.

Allen, a native of Bristow, Okla., says he is a "full-blooded member of the Yuchi Indian tribe. Several years ago, he said, the government made a settlement "of some kind" with his tribe. So far, he has received about $6 in "headright" money.

Recently he got another such payment from the government.

U. S. Treasury experts estimated it cost the government about $1, including keeping of records, to give Allen another share.

The check, which could cost a nickel or a dime to cash in a bank or supermarket, was for one cent.

Lawrence Students Point Finger at Bigoted Appleton

Editor, Post-Crescent:

We were very much disconcerted by the editorial which appeared in the Appleton Post-Crescent on May 24 entitled "Montgomery and Appleton." In it you condemn the actions of the Montgomerys against the "Freedom Riders." We agree with your condemnation. However, how can you be as certain as you are that Appleton would act differently in the same situation? In several smaller incidents Appleton has proved herself to be a narrow-minded bigoted town. For example, a Lawrence College Negro student inquired of a job by phone, giving her name but not her race, and was promised a job at a downtown Appleton store. When she appeared in person she was told that the job had already been filled. Again, Lawrence Negro students have been denied haircuts in downtown barber shops. For several years Negro entertainers have had to stay either at the YMCA or out of town.

It is very easy to sit back smugly and point accusing fingers at the south. At the same time we neglect the fact that our own problems have the potential of growing just as large as the South's. If this treatment has been given to the few Negroes we have had in town, what would happen if many were to come? This is a question Appleton may soon have to answer. Therefore, until Appleton can prove herself in these smaller situations, she has no right to assume she would be a paragon of virtue in the larger. We do not mean to imply that she would act as Montgomery has, but at the same time it is impossible to predict how she would act.

Appleton Librarian Praised for Her Work

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I came to Oshkosh two and a half years ago and shortly after arriving I visited Miss Edith Rechcigl and made a tour of the Appleton Public Library.

Oftentimes a municipality takes for granted some of their finest assets and they take for granted some of the best talent they have. It is again the case of "A prophet is not acceptable in his own country."

I am writing this to call attention to the perfectly beautiful job of remodeling that was done at the Appleton Public Library some years ago under the direction of Miss Edith Rechcigl. When I made a tour of the library I was tremendously impressed with the careful planning, the pleasant and attractive layout of the public areas and the spirit of public service behind the whole plan. This remodeling was a tremendous undertaking and it took courage, foresight and vision. All of this Miss Rechcigl had.

Miss Rechcigl is retiring. But she is leaving Appleton one of the finest monuments that anyone can leave, for the remodeling of the Appleton Public Library, its growth and its excellent service, are a tribute to Miss Rechcigl's untiring devotion, her stature as a librarian, her vision and her faith in the

Ninth Grader Writes About Communism

Editor, Post-Crescent:

The Communists of today are working overtime to conquer the world. They figure that by 1975, the United States will be just ripe for picking. The free people of the U.S. have got to keep themselves free from sin, and pray extremely hard for the next couple of years. This is the only way the U.S. is going to be saved from Communism. I think that if the people knew exactly what Communism is they would change their ways of life. Here are a few hints of what Communism is.

Communism is a socialist party, which is governed by the state itself. The people work for the government and keep just what the government lets them; they hardly get enough to eat. The state tells the people exactly what to do. The state controls the press and the radio, therefore, there is no freedom of speech. The state controls and operates all business, therefore, a person is not sure if he will have money to buy food with. The state owns all the property, so, when a person is useless to them they may dispose of him. They will not allow anyone to have religious freedom, if a person gets caught praying they will persecute him and there will be nothing said about it. The people don't know who they will be able to trust, so they don't really have any friends. A Communist does not care about the individual, but cares only for the Communist party.

It is the duty of the men and women of the free world to fight Communism. Listed below, are some ways to overcome Communism.

1. By closing down the stores that sell pornographic literature.
2. By staying away from immoral pictures, in the theaters, and on television.
3. By praying very hard for the conversion of Russia.
4. By loving your neighbor as yourself.

We must love our neighbor as ourselves, because the Communist does not care about the individual, but cares only for the Communist party. If anyone does not take this seriously, it would be wise to do a little checking up on Communism, find out what will happen to the people if the Communists get in control of the world. The Communists will dominate the world, unless, we all take a firm stand against it.

The Yeti, or abominable snowman, is a legendary creature of the Asian mountains. Most western scientists and Sir Edmund Hillary are skeptical about the hulking beast. Others theorize it may be an ape or a Neanderthal man.

Hillary brought a supposed Yeti scalp to Chicago for examination last fall, then returned it to Khamjung Monastery, where Buddhist Lamas venerate the relic.

Pugh said he considers the Hillary expedition a scientific success, even though it failed in its quest — the scaling of 27,900-foot Mt. Makalu.

The British physiologist took over the expedition three weeks ago when Sir Edmund, 41, conquerer of Mt. Everest in 1953, suffered a slight cerebral stroke.

Stage Appears Set for Plain Talk Between Kennedy, Khrushchev

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN
PARIS AP) — President Kennedy may be expected to bring news of his Vienna meeting with Premier Khrushchev to the American people in a free-swinging verbal slugfest that would leave each leader with few illusions about the other.

Advance pronouncements from Moscow indicate Khrushchev will tell the President the United States has no choice but to accept rising Communist world power as a reality and adapt itself to that as a fact of life—that the Communists will neither retreat nor halt in their drive for world supremacy.

For his part, President Kennedy indicated on his recent state visit to Canada he is in a mood for straight talk, unvarnished by diplomatic niceties. He is apt to pull no punches while telling Khrushchev what the United States is prepared to do — beef up conventional forces, activate a NATO nuclear striking force and take whatever other measures may be necessary to head off further Communist conquests.

In advance, Moscow is putting

Ex-Dictator Wants to Rule Country Again

Manuel A. Odria, Friend of U. S., Returns to Peru

BY THOMAS J. STONE
LIMA, Peru (AP) — An ex-dictator has returned from self-exile in the United States with the intention of ruling Peru once again. Retired Gen. Manuel A. Odria, a friend of Uncle Sam and an enemy of communism and Fidel Castro, He ruled with an iron fist in Peru from 1948-56 but built houses, schools and hospitals.

Before stepping out, he called years: Stubborn problems can be solved by discussion. But then it adds what may be the central theme of Khrushchev's argument in his talk with Kennedy.

The success of discussions, says the Communist, depends upon the ruling circles of the imperialist powers, and first of all the United States of America, turning away from reactionary illusions and understanding the real relationship of forces in the world today.

Unalterable Fact

That seems to be it, in a nutshell. It implies that what Communist calls "the solidarity of Socialist proletarian internationalism" is an unalterable fact which faces the West with an enormous, monolithic power bloc. The leaders of this bloc, because of rising Soviet economic, political and military power, have no intention of backing up or even slowing down in their drive to spread communism.

The Russians say they will not export revolution, but admit they will give eager aid to revolutions everywhere and will oppose any U. S. attempt, as the Russians put it, to export counterrevolution.

This means that once the Communists get a foothold—as they have in Cuba and Laos by seizing what they call "the national liberation movement"—they will defy any attempts to root them out.

The West can have peaceful co-existence, but Soviet and Communist world power dictates the terms, the Kremlin seems to be saying. If President Kennedy is willing to recognize all this, then, as Communist puts it, "The Socialist countries are prepared to establish the broadest measures in agreement with other states, for securing the peace and security of the peoples."

Does Not Mean Peace

Communists clearly are instructed, however, that peaceful coexistence does not mean peace. Communist tells them in the same article they must proceed on the understanding of "the inevitability of the class struggle in capitalist states and the national liberation movement in colonial and dependent countries."

"Peaceful coexistence," it continues, "is one of the forms of class struggle in the international

Plan of Treatment Outlined For TB Patient by Doctor

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can you briefly outline the presently accepted treatment for tuberculosis?

In addition: Is there any test that produces a definite 'yes or no' as to whether a person has tuberculosis? Who in the medical field is best qualified to decide? A radiologist? Lung specialist? Diagnostician? Can tuberculosis be successfully treated in the home, with progress monitored by some state or other agency? — M.D.

I'm glad to see questions about TB because, from where I sit, I can see so clearly that this may it is still a dreadfully important one, too often a deadly one, and not still taken seriously enough by the public.

The accepted treatment today consists of:

- 1 — Strict bed rest as long as either fever or hemorrhage occurs. After that, gradually increasing activity.
- 2 — Treat germ

zid. These are used in pairs, two at a time, because there is a danger that the TB germ can develop resistance to one. If this occurs, a different pair of drugs is used. If there is resistance to all three, then we must resort to other drugs, such as pyrazinamide, cycloserine and others.

4 — Surgical removal of a lung or part of a lung (parts that have been too severely penetrated and damaged) is wise, and sometimes necessary. Likewise collapse of a lung (to let it rest) may be required. Today, this is done by removal of ribs; injecting air into the chest cavity is seldom done now.

5 — Treatment of any other conditions, ranging from poor nutrition to diabetes, heart conditions or other chronic troubles, is a must.

6 — And after treatment, the patient must — and this is an important must — be observed at regular intervals.

For the other questions: There is no single test that will give a "yes-or-no answer" as to whether TB is present. But with whatever variety of tests may be necessary, you can depend on the ultimate answer being correct. Sometimes this involves tests to rule out the presence of other ailments that superficially, are similar.

A lung specialist would be the best qualified person to judge — but some lung specialists are outstanding X-ray specialists (radiologists), too — and both are diagnosticians of high order.

Most authorities agree that a hospital or sanatorium is the right place for TB until a case is under control. It could be done at home — if the home has all the equipment, skills and conditions afforded by a hospital.

But what home does?

Modern treatment has materially shortened the period of confinement for tuberculosis with effective results.

Most authorities agree that a hospital or sanatorium is the right place for TB until a case is under control. It could be done at home — if the home has all the equipment, skills and conditions afforded by a hospital.

But what home does?

Modern treatment has materially shortened the period of confinement for tuberculosis with effective results.

Plan of Treatment Outlined For TB Patient by Doctor

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can you briefly outline the presently accepted treatment for tuberculosis?

In addition: Is there any test that produces a definite 'yes or no' as to whether a person has tuberculosis? Who in the medical field is best qualified to decide? A radiologist? Lung specialist? Diagnostician? Can tuberculosis be successfully treated in the home, with progress monitored by some state or other agency? — M.D.

I'm glad to see questions about TB because, from where I sit, I can see so clearly that this may it is still a dreadfully important one, too often a deadly one, and not still taken seriously enough by the public.

The accepted treatment today consists of:

- 1 — Strict bed rest as long as either fever or hemorrhage occurs. After that, gradually increasing activity.
- 2 — Treat germ

zid. These are used in pairs, two at a time, because there is a danger that the TB germ can develop resistance to one. If this occurs, a different pair of drugs is used. If there is resistance to all three, then we must resort to other drugs, such as pyrazinamide, cycloserine and others.

4 — Surgical removal of a lung or part of a lung (parts that have been too severely penetrated and damaged) is wise, and sometimes necessary. Likewise collapse of a lung (to let it rest) may be required. Today, this is done by removal of ribs; injecting air into the chest cavity is seldom done now.

5 — Treatment of any other conditions, ranging from poor nutrition to diabetes, heart conditions or other chronic troubles, is a must.

6 — And after treatment, the patient must — and this is an important must — be observed at regular intervals.

Dodgers Win, 4-3, Dropping Braves to .500 Mark Again

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Inability of crowd of 19,239 at County Stadium to get a winning streak going is doing nothing to help the Milwaukee Braves. After winning two straight from the Dodgers, the Braves turned in another inept performance and fell to .500 for the 15th time this season. Their 3-3 record on a week-long home stand left them with a season mark of 18-18 — badly championship play.

The Braves failed to capitalize on scoring chances and bowed 4-3 to the Los Angeles Dodgers Sunday before a disappointing crowd.

Dick Emerich Wins Broad Jump Title at Hartford

The talented Emerich brothers — Dick and Dave — personally escorted New London to a third-place finish in the State Class B high school track and field meet at Hartford Saturday.

Dick won the broad jump and placed second in the 180-yard low hurdles, while Dave took third.

Dick Emerich's 12-point total placed the Bulldogs only five points behind title-winning Berlin and two behind runnerup Shorewood.

Kimberly was the only other Fox Cities area team to score in the meet. The defending champion Papermakers tied for 21st in.

the field of 89 schools on the strength of Tom Rooyakkers' second-place effort in the broad jump.

Third Straight Year

This marks the third straight year that a Fox Cities area school has ranked among the top three Class B track teams. Kimberly was third in '59 and first in '60, while the Bulldogs rose from fourth in '60 to finish third this year.

Dick Emerich reversed his 1960 loss to Rooyakkers and succeeded in the lanky Papermaker as broad jump king. Emerich jumped 21 feet, 7 inches — which ranks one inch better than Rooyakkers' winning leap of last year. (Rooyakkers was the only defending champ entered).

In the low hurdles, Dick Emerich placed second to Columbus Dave Weideman, the meet's lone double winner. Weideman won the low in 21 seconds and the high hurdles in :15.15.

Two new records were set — in addition to the automatic new mark for the new height in the high hurdles. Whitewater's Greg Kent threw the discus 139 feet, 7 1/2 inches for a new record, and Berlin's Dave Russell ran the 220-yard dash in :21.9.

Giants Hand Chicago Seventh Straight Loss On Big Ninth Inning

Maintain Lead; Reds Beat Phils Eighth Time in Row, Keep Them in Cellar

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Somebody had better flag down the Cubs and Phillies. There isn't any 10th place in the National League this year. The way they are going, they will be playing a league all by themselves in another month.

In the race for the cellar, the Phillies still are 10 percentage points ahead—or behind. It all depends what way you look at it. Each trails the San Francisco Giants, in first place, by 13 full games. The Cubs are seventh at .316. The Phils eighth at .306.

Chicago dropped its seventh straight and its 18th in the last 21 games Sunday, falling before the Giants 6-5. San Francisco now has beaten the Cubbies eight in a row.

Losers & Games

Philadelphia has lost all eight of its games with the Cincinnati Reds and has dropped 16 of its last 21 starts. Davis Paden's pair of two-run homers and Bob Purkey's pitching for the Reds did it in Sunday 4-2.

St. Louis knocked out former teammate Harvey Haddix in a six-run first inning and swept down the base line and an attempt to get Coenen coming home from third failed when the throw was too late. Jerry DeBruin singled to left to plate Vaneverhoven. On an infield out, DeBruin went to second and Steger to third. Wayne Paul singled both men home.

Paul reached second on an infield out and Carl Bowers drove him home with the fifth run on a single.

The Papermakers, who had scored one in the first on a pair of walks, an infield out and a sacrifice fly, added another in the top of the sixth when Gene Pearenbom drilled a homer over the right field fence.

The Klubbers came back with

Cedar Rapids Takes Series Finale, 7-3

Post-Crescent News Service

CEDAR RAPIDS — Cedar Rapids rediscovered its long-ball punch to defeat Fox Cities, 7-3, Saturday night, squaring the 4-game series.

Fox Cities pitchers had limited Cedar Rapids to a triple and a double in winning the two previous games. But Barry Morgan broke loose for a homer and a double, and Gene Johnson slammed a pair of doubles Saturday.

Back-to-back 2-baggers by Johnson and Morgan gave the Braves their first run in the fourth. Morgan unloaded his fifth homer of the season with two mates aboard in the sixth. It was his first homer in two weeks. He leads the league in both homers and runs batted in.

Smiley Homers

Chuck Smiley smashed a 2-run homer off Bill Holmes in the eighth, and Holmes was replaced after hitting the next batter, Jim Liggett. "Pho!" Anthony and "Nellie" Cochran greeted Archie White with singles to load the bases.

White walked Jim Caldwell to force in a run, but White then retired the side when Sam Bowers hit a soft pop to left field and Dick Yenchia bounced into a double play. Cedar Rapids sewed it up with a 3-run burst in the eighth. Dick Teirault, who had replaced starter Herm Starrette in the seventh, gave up three singles and two walks before John Miller came in. Anthony booted a ground ball to left field run

Newcomers Jones And Brabham Draw Attention

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—A potential record-breaking field with the most rookies in 10 years, thunders Tuesday after a purse of $75,000 or more in the golden anniversary 500-mile auto race.

The 33 drivers, screened from 69 nominees by two weekends of time trials, met today in the last preliminary to the Memorial Day classic—the annual rules review, and officials' traditional chilling reminder that you can't win riding in an ambulance or a hearse.

A separate session was called to emphasize the rules and meanings of starter Bill Vandewater's flags for the eight first-time starters. It was the biggest crop of rookies in 10 years, and maybe the best.

The vanguard of the potential audience of 200,000 was talking up two especially glamorous newcomers, Australian Jack Brabham and Parnelli Jones of Torrance, Calif.

Smaller Engine

Brabham, world road racing champion the last two years, challenged the race's 14-year domination by Offenhauser-powered cars built especially for the 2 1/2-mile brick and asphalt track.

His English Cooper Climax also was built especially for Indianapolis but it departed from the American style by having a smaller engine installed behind the driver and a shorter, lighter chassis.

Jones, a terror on smaller American tracks, upheld his reputation with fast, heady driving in practice and qualifications. The 2-year-old rookie, one of the five youngest drivers in the field, will pilot the year-old Agajanian Special, an A. J. Watson creation in which Lloyd Ruby of Houston placed seventh in his first start.

Ruby this year has the new Epperly car originally assigned to veteran Tony Bettenhausen, killed May 11 testing another car. This would have been Bettenhausen's 15th Memorial Day race.

Vineyard Gains First Triumph

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN

Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Shoving six unearned runs through Des Moines' porous defense, the opportunistic Fox Cities Foxes added another link to their home winning chain Sunday afternoon.

The 11-5 decision represented the Foxes' sixth consecutive Goodland Field victory but was the first win of the season for Dave Vineyard, a lean right-handed pitcher.

The win kept the Foxes one game behind Three-I League-leading Topeka. The Foxes had dropped out of the co-lead Saturday when they lost to Cedar Rapids while Topeka was beating Lincoln.

Only 7 Hits

Both Des Moines and Fox Cities stayed in character Sunday. The Foxes, lightest-hitting team in the league to date, collected only seven safeties (compared to 13 for the Demons). Des Moines, the worst-fielding team in the league erred seven times. It marked the fourth time in the 6-game home streak that the Foxes have shrugged off a base-hit deficit to win.

Bob Dunlap (3-1), one of the circuit's earned run pace-setters, will be on the firing line for the Foxes tonight when they meet the Demons at 8 p.m. at Goodland field.

Each of the 10 Foxes who got in Sunday's game scored — with Jim Liggett crossing the plate twice and everyone else once.

The hits were split among seven different Foxes. Jim Caldwell's out-of-the-park wallop to left field

Packers Sign Hanner, Symank

GREEN BAY (AP)—The Green Bay Packers said Sunday that two defensive veterans, tackle Dave Hanner and back John Symank, had signed contracts for the 1961 National Football League season. Hanner, who will be starting his tenth season here, is the oldest Packer in point of service. Symank has completed four seasons with Green Bay.

Macs Batter Harrison for First FRV Win

Club 21 Hits; 'Butch' Konetzke Socks Homer

HARRISON — The Menasha Macs exploded for 11 runs in the first inning and went on to post a lopsided 29-2 victory over Harrison in a Fox River Valley Baseball League game here Sunday.

The victory evened the Macs record at 1-1 in the league. Harrison has dropped both its starts.

The Macs unloaded a 21-hit attack off three Harrison hurlers. The game was halted after seven innings.

Commit 12 Errors

The losers helped the Macs cause with 12 errors in the field, and eight bases on balls by pitchers.

Don Jensen went the distance for the Macs, allowing only six hits.

After the 11-run opening inning, the Macs scored three runs in the second, seven more in the third, a pair in the fourth, one in the fifth and three in the sixth.

"Butch" Konetzke had the only homer of the game, a clout with a man on in the fourth, and three other hits.

Bob Karisny drove in two runs in the first with a triple, and Bud Koehnke had a pair of doubles for the Macs. Koehnke went 4-for-6.

Gresham Nine Faces Madison In State Meet

Oshkosh High to Play Rice Lake in Opening Round

EAU CLAIRE (AP)—Eight sectional titlists, none holding over from last year, begin play here Thursday in the championship round of the Wisconsin High School Baseball Tournament.

A new state titlist will be crowned Saturday to succeed Auburn, the 1960 king.

Opening round games are: Baraboo vs. Eau Claire, Gresham vs. Madison Central, Oshkosh vs. Rice Lake and Watertown vs. Wausau.

The pairings were decided on an alphabetical basis by the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association.

Madison Central, Eau Claire, Oshkosh and Watertown are former state champions.

Six sectional titlists were determined Saturday.

Baraboo, playing at home, downed Tomah 14-3 after conquering Soldiers Grove 2-0 on a no-hitter by John Eckhardt, who also drove in a run. Tomah eliminated Blue River 3-1 earlier Saturday.

Wausau gained the final round by bombing Almond 15-2 at Wausau. Gresham took the New London meet by edging DePere, the last survivor of the 1960 sectional champions. 6-5 Oshkosh trimmed Fond du Lac 4-2 on the loser's diamond. Madison Central invaded Janesville and beat the home team 5-2 while Watertown played host to Kenosha and won 5-4.

Eau Claire and Rice Lake won their own sectionals Friday night. Eau Claire bounced Alma Center 11-3 and Rice Lake topped Osceola 9-2.

Alston All Smiles Over Farrell's Performance

Walt Used 7 of His 8 Healthy Hurlers in Series

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The supposedly pitching-rich Los Angeles Dodgers, down to eight healthy hurlers, are struggling but holding their own in the National League race.

The Dodgers closed out a road trip with a 6-4 record Sunday by salvaging the windup of a three-game series with the Milwaukee Braves 4-3 on relief specialist Dick Farrell's six scoreless innings.

After employing seven of his eight available pitchers in three games, manager Walt Alston was all smiles over the performance of the big right-hander obtained recently from the Philadelphia Phillies.

"Farrell pitched himself a ball game—and we certainly needed it," Alston said. "He held his stuff good. It's tough for any pitcher who usually doesn't work more than a couple of innings. But it's tougher still for a fellow like Farrell who throws hard."

Although Soupbaw Johnny Podres, the Dodgers' leading hurler with a 5-1 record, is sidelined indefinitely with a shoulder injury, Alston indicated he plans doubleheader. But the Braves came back with Jack Kelley's four-hit pitching and Barry Moran's four-run homer to take the game 4-2. Burlington's victory was assured by a 12-run spree in the third inning.

"Naturally, it hurts to lose a man like Podres, but we've still got four solid starters in Stan Williams, Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale and Roger Craig," Alston said. "And as far as rotation goes, it's a lot easier to rotate four pitchers than five."

"Our pitching has been in and out—hot and cold," Alston said. "It definitely wasn't good against the Braves until Farrell came through."

"I think that's the longest I've worked since 1958," Farrell said, who won his fourth against three defeats. "I had my fast ball and slider moving, though, and didn't tire. I tried mainly to keep (Hank) Aaron and the other right-handed hitters from getting a ball up into that wind blowing to left."

All of the Los Angeles pitchers were happy to see the last of Aaron for a while. Hammerin' Hank boosted his average from .313 to .343 with eight hits, including two homers, in 12 times at bat in the three games.

Five Twin City Netters Qualify For State Meet

Oshkosh Captures Singles, Doubles Team Crowns

OSHKOSH — Four Neenah Rockets and one Menasha Bluejay will represent the Twin Cities in the state tennis meet at Janesville next weekend.

Neenah netters qualifying in the WIAA sectional here Saturday were Ken Peterson and Bob Bletzing, in the singles, and Doug Anderson and Dick Dietrich, in the doubles.

The lone Menasha netter qualifying for the meet was Barry Conway, only a freshman, as a singles performer.

Team Title

Oshkosh won the team title with 22 points. Neenah and Menasha followed with 17 and 15 points, respectively.

Manager's Hit Leads Topeka To 3-1 Win

Burlington Thumps Cedar Rapids, 20-11, But Loses Nightcap

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The boss himself took control of the situation Sunday to keep Topeka atop the Three I League standings.

Manager Dave Bistot clubbed a three-run triple as the Reds tallied four times in the sixth inning en route to an 8-4 conquest of Lincoln.

Wones Big Factor

Relief pitcher Stan Wones also was a big factor in the victory. Pitching shutout ball after Lincoln took a 4-0 lead in the fourth. Also these heroics were needed to ward off Fox Cities, which stayed within a game of Topeka by thumping Des Moines' Charitable Demons, 11-5.

Burlington went on a 20-hit rampage to win Cedar Rapids, 20-11, in the first game of their four-game series. The Sox piled up a six-run lead with the help of a grand slammer by Wes Covington and the Yanks tied it with six runs in an inning, four on a grand slammer by Bob Cerv, a pinch hitter. Despite two more Yank homers, the Sox finally slammed out a 14-9 decision, breaking a six-game losing streak. New York won the second game, a comparatively quiet affair, 5-3, despite another homer by Covington.

Really Tee Off

They really tee off in Cleveland. Only three homers were hit in the opener, won by the Tribe 9-1 on Gary Bell's six-hitter against Kansas City. Seven were slammed in the second, won by the A's rookie Norm Bass with a six-hitter. Johnny Romano of Cleveland and Norm Siebern of the A's each contributed two.

Detroit called on its Sunday punch. Charlie Maxwell, as well as Norm Cash and Dick Brown for home runs at Los Angeles but needed a two-run double by Billy Bruton in the seventh for a 9-3 victory over the Angels.

The new Washington Senators continued to make life miserable for the old Washington Senators, now the Minnesota Twins, beating them for the third straight time 6-4. It was the eighth defeat for the Twins in their last nine games. The new Senators have won 11 of their last 16 in a rise to fifth place.

Arroyo Loses

Rookie Don Schwall snapped a five-game Baltimore winning streak by pitching the Boston Red Sox to a seven-hit 5-0 victory. He struck out Jerry Adair four times.

AL Shatters Record With 27 Home Runs

Nine Hit as Yankees, Chisox Split; Senators Win Third Straight From Minnesota

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Table one look at those Sunday box scores and you'll have to agree the old rabbit ball is back. American Leaguers hit 27 home runs Sunday, a new all-time record. The old high was 26 by the National on May 30, 1958, in eight games. The American also played eight games on that date when it set its previous high of 24. They played only seven games Sunday.

Ten homers were hit at Cleveland, nine at New York, five at Los Angeles, two at Washington and one at Baltimore.

There was a fantastic first game at Yankee Stadium between the Chicago White Sox and the New York Yankees. The Sox piled up a six-run lead with the help of a grand slammer by Wes Covington and the Yanks tied it with six runs in an inning, four on a grand slammer by Bob Cerv, a pinch hitter. Despite two more Yank homers, the Sox finally slammed out a 14-9 decision, breaking a six-game losing streak. Win, Guard Child's Confidence Sacredly

BY ANGELO PATRI

Children trust their parents until they prove that they are not to be trusted with confidences. From the time they come into the house to tell their mothers all about what is happening outside, until they are preparing to go out into life on their own, they seek their parents' interest in what they are doing, in what they are thinking about and what comes of it all. This they are likely to do until they find that their confidences have been made a matter of gossip to outsiders.

Of course these parents did not for a moment intend to hurt the child whose funny ideas struck them as too good to keep. When a mother told a visiting friend the story of her small daughter's fondness for a certain boy in her class and told how he smiled at her and how she intended to marry him and have a whole crowd of children (all boys just like him) she had no idea that her small daughter was hearing every word and felt each one like a slap on her sensitive heart. But that mistake cost her the confidence of her daughter from that time on.

Charming Confidences
Children are funny sometimes and their confidences are charming, or enlightening, or frightening, but as long as they are given to their parents freely, both sides of the story are in good position. The child has had his audience and freed his mind of the thoughts, happy or otherwise, and has had the comfort of being listened to with sympathy and understanding, let's hope. He may never have the same story to tell again, or he may be trying to straighten out an idea that is only shadowed in his mind as yet. In any case he is helped by the knowledge that his mother or father "knows."

Too often when children reach the first stages of adolescence and the first forces of maturity start stirring in them, they feel all about what is happening outside, until they are preparing to go out into life on their own, they seek their parents' interest in what they are doing, in what they are thinking about and what comes of it all. This they are likely to do until they find that their confidences have been made a matter of gossip to outsiders.

The Ailing House Gum Mark Easy to Get Off Table

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: We recently purchased a walnut coffee table which had a tag scotch-taped on it. The tape came off but left a black gummy mark. How can I remove it without harming the varnish?
A: Gentle rubbing with fine steel wool and a nonflammable liquid spot remover should take off the gummy substance without harm to the finish.

PAINTING OVER REDWOOD
Q: We are planning to paint the exterior of our house. However, we are limited as to color. We have redwood screens and storm windows. Is there any way to treat them so they could be painted satisfactorily? We are afraid of "bleeding."
A: After cleaning surfaces thoroughly to remove all grime, soot, etc., apply a coat of aluminum paint or pure, fresh, white shellac (thinned half-and-half with denatured alcohol) to prevent bleeding. Then apply any top quality exterior paint, following container instructions as to application carefully.

PAINTING REGISTER
Q: A baseboard register in our bathroom has become very rusty. We would like to remove the rust and paint the register to blend with the inlaid floor covering. What preparations should we use and how to prevent future rusting?
A: Remove the present rust with fine steel wool and turpentine and clean the entire surface of the register to remove all trace of grease, grime, wax, etc. Then apply two thin coats of special radiator enamel in the desired color. Remember: the register must be stone cold during the painting process and until completely dry; any heating will cause paint to discolor.

Q: The brick wall behind our stove is badly grease spotted. Cleaning with acid before we moved into the home is the only treatment ever given. How can we remove the grease spots and preserve the brick against further spotting?
A: Cover the grease spots with a layer of thick paste made of powdered whiting and a nonflammable liquid spot remover, being sure the kitchen is well ventilated while working. Place sheet of plastic over the paste to retard evaporation. When the paste is dry, or discolored, replace with fresh; continue treatment until no more grease is absorbed.

When the brick is clean and dry, apply a soaking coat of raw linseed oil (test this on an inconspicuous brick first, to see how you like the result). Wipe off any excess oil after an hour; do not neglect this important step as otherwise a sticky residue, almost impossible to remove later, will form on the surface. The brickwork colors may be somewhat darkened, but enriched.

CLEANING TERRAZZO FLOORS
Q: I work cleaning halls in an office building. The floor is multi-colored marble or terrazzo, with a brown border. This is very dirty. Is there anything I could put in the water to clean this up? The mopboard is black marble; we've tried washing and oiling it, but it stays black only a few days, then white streaks? and dots come through.

A: Marble is of limestone formation (terrazzo is about 70 per cent marble) and acid dissolves it; alkaline cleaning solutions are absorbed, then crystallize and expand when dry. If possible, seal terrazzo floors, made by nationally known wax manufacturer and available at janitor supply dealers, should be applied following label instructions carefully, to keep surface clean longer and preventing soil penetration.

To wash marble and terrazzo floors, add three tablespoons of tri-sodium phosphate to gallon of hot water, adding a scratchbrush, scouring powder; then rinse thoroughly with clear water to prevent "soap film." To restore marble polish, if dulled, rub with putty powder on damp felt pad.

First Methodist Church was the setting Wednesday evening for Appleton Vocational School Homemakers spring dinner and installation of officers. Miss Charlotte Wollaeger, head of women at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, was guest speaker. Seated are Miss Wollaeger and Mrs. A. L. Boettcher. Standing are Mrs. Joe Gunderson and Mrs. Ella Wagner.

Plans for the Poolside style show and luncheon at Holiday Inn sponsored by Silver Cross Circle of The King's Daughters are nearing completion. The show will begin at 1 p.m. June 22. Proceeds will be donated to Salvation Army Building Fund. Looking over the drawings of the new building are Mrs. Lloyd William, member of Salvation Army Board, Mrs. William Chandler, ticket chairman for the show, Mrs. Jack Brauer, reservations chairman, and seated, Mrs. O. C. Boldt, secretary of Salvation Army Board.

Yvonne DeGaulle Official Hostess to Mrs. Kennedy

BY GEORGE MCARTHUR

PARIS (AP) — Yvonne Charlotte Anne-Marie Vendroux was a lovely bride but most eyes in the church were on her tall and dashing bridegroom, a wounded and already much-decorated war hero with a brilliant future.

From that day in Calais Church of Our Lady, the bride has happily basked for 40 years in the shadow of Charles Andre Joseph Marie De Gaulle, now president of France.

Yvonne De Gaulle, official hostess to Mrs. John F. Kennedy during the Kennedys' visit to France, at 61 is 30 years older than the American First Lady. But she is 10 years younger than General De Gaulle.

Mrs. De Gaulle is the daughter of a Calais industrialist. She still runs the French presidential mansion with provincial simplicity.

Takes Things in Stride
At the Lavis Galas, dinners and opera performances she is gracious and retiring. She takes them in stride because they are part of her husband's duties. But she firmly insists, one suspects with De Gaulle's full agreement, that most evenings be spent in the peace and quiet of friends and family.

This tranquility reflected through his wife has largely bolstered the outward calm which De Gaulle has always shown the world.

It is an open secret around the Elysee Palace that Mrs. De Gaulle's happiest moments are spent at the family home of Colombey-Les-Deux-Eglises, about two hours' drive from Paris. It is said that when De Gaulle resumed power she extracted from him a promise of at least one weekend a month in the country. With rare exceptions he has kept the promise.

It is evident that Mrs. De Gaulle holds the old French view that the world is a man's world. She fits easily into her self-effacing role. She would obviously find uncomfortable the glow of public attention that falls on Jacqueline Kennedy.

Nor has she ever shared Mrs. Kennedy's obvious delight in clothes. Mrs. De Gaulle favors classic two-piece suits and evening dresses in conservative colors and cut. She frequents the famed Paris fashion houses only when necessary to select a gown for a high state occasion.

Personal Conservatism
Her personal conservatism is matched by a deep religious faith. In at least one case a capable official was transferred from De Gaulle's staff because of a divorce.

As wife of the president she helps her husband entertain and busies herself with charities, schools and hospitals. But she is almost never at his side at official ceremonies.

When she accompanies him on a journey she travels separately or discreetly boards the plane well ahead of him. When President Kennedy arrives in France it has been arranged that Mrs. De Gaulle and Mrs. Kennedy will be on the sidelines at the greeting ceremonies, while their two husbands get the limelight.

Her story is typical of many in France... the young girl who meets and falls in love with a dashing officer. The great tragedy of her life was the long sickness of their youngest daughter, Anne, who died in childhood. Her name was given to a foundation which is the family's main charitable interest.

Two Children
The DeGaules have two surviving children — Philippe, who now commands a destroyer in the French Navy, and a married daughter, Elizabeth. Three grandsons are frequent guests at the family's country home but seldom appear at the cold presidential palace.

In Colombey-Les-Deux-Eglises, Mrs. De Gaulle can often be seen driving to market in a tiny French car, bargaining with merchants or speaking to townspeople. She handles the family budget with a Frenchwoman's usual care. It is said that she is as careful of expenses at the Elysee Palace as she is in her own home — where she and the cook Philomene hold long conversations over the daily menu.

Yvonne DeGaulle Official Hostess to Mrs. Kennedy

BY GEORGE MCARTHUR

PARIS (AP) — Yvonne Charlotte Anne-Marie Vendroux was a lovely bride but most eyes in the church were on her tall and dashing bridegroom, a wounded and already much-decorated war hero with a brilliant future.

From that day in Calais Church of Our Lady, the bride has happily basked for 40 years in the shadow of Charles Andre Joseph Marie De Gaulle, now president of France.

Yvonne De Gaulle, official hostess to Mrs. John F. Kennedy during the Kennedys' visit to France, at 61 is 30 years older than the American First Lady. But she is 10 years younger than General De Gaulle.

Mrs. De Gaulle is the daughter of a Calais industrialist. She still runs the French presidential mansion with provincial simplicity.

Takes Things in Stride
At the Lavis Galas, dinners and opera performances she is gracious and retiring. She takes them in stride because they are part of her husband's duties. But she firmly insists, one suspects with De Gaulle's full agreement, that most evenings be spent in the peace and quiet of friends and family.

This tranquility reflected through his wife has largely bolstered the outward calm which De Gaulle has always shown the world.

It is an open secret around the Elysee Palace that Mrs. De Gaulle's happiest moments are spent at the family home of Colombey-Les-Deux-Eglises, about two hours' drive from Paris. It is said that when De Gaulle resumed power she extracted from him a promise of at least one weekend a month in the country. With rare exceptions he has kept the promise.

It is evident that Mrs. De Gaulle holds the old French view that the world is a man's world. She fits easily into her self-effacing role. She would obviously find uncomfortable the glow of public attention that falls on Jacqueline Kennedy.

Nor has she ever shared Mrs. Kennedy's obvious delight in clothes. Mrs. De Gaulle favors classic two-piece suits and evening dresses in conservative colors and cut. She frequents the famed Paris fashion houses only when necessary to select a gown for a high state occasion.

Personal Conservatism
Her personal conservatism is matched by a deep religious faith. In at least one case a capable official was transferred from De Gaulle's staff because of a divorce.

As wife of the president she helps her husband entertain and busies herself with charities, schools and hospitals. But she is almost never at his side at official ceremonies.

When she accompanies him on a journey she travels separately or discreetly boards the plane well ahead of him. When President Kennedy arrives in France it has been arranged that Mrs. De Gaulle and Mrs. Kennedy will be on the sidelines at the greeting ceremonies, while their two husbands get the limelight.

Her story is typical of many in France... the young girl who meets and falls in love with a dashing officer. The great tragedy of her life was the long sickness of their youngest daughter, Anne, who died in childhood. Her name was given to a foundation which is the family's main charitable interest.

Two Children
The DeGaules have two surviving children — Philippe, who now commands a destroyer in the French Navy, and a married daughter, Elizabeth. Three grandsons are frequent guests at the family's country home but seldom appear at the cold presidential palace.

A Mattress Matters More in Summer

Anything at all wrong with a mattress will be twice as noticeable come hot weather. Wakefulness, tossing and turning and just a good look at the mattress with nothing but a sheet to hide it will make every member of the family conscious of what he or she sleeps on. Check to see if any mattress in the house is lumpy, too soft, caved in in the center, or limp around the edges. It's high time right now to forestall almost sure complaints by installing new sleeping equipment wherever it's needed.

A mattress in good condition shows an even surface and responds to hand pressure at all points with equal enthusiasm. But the only way to make entirely sure that it provides consistent support is to lie on it. The person who sleeps in the bed may not have noticed it's faults — yet deterioration comes so gradually. But you will, and can replace it in time for summer nights to be restful. Another way to check a mattress and box-springs is to think back to the year they were purchased. If they are ten years old or older, and have been used regularly, they are past their prime and correct comfort is seriously suspect.

Mrs. S. M. B. "My kitchen is corridor type, 17'x10', and has a small dining area at one end. The ceiling is 8 feet high and there are 14-inch soffits on the long walls. Space is short everywhere as there is a door at the east end, a large casement window at the west end where the table and chairs are, and the appliances and cabinets line up along the long walls. I'd like to use wallpaper, but don't know exactly where and how."

The cabinets and walls, or wallpaper background, should be in white or the same very light color to widen the room. Wallpaper pattern should show plenty of background. So much the better if it looks the same upside down as right side up so it can continue across the ceiling and has a seethrough effect. One design used by a decorator in a kitchen with problems like yours looks like large-meshed chicken wire, and is black on white used with white cabinets. With wallpaper of this type, or with plain walls, colorful big motifs can be cut from a striking wallpaper and pasted on both sides of the windows, and at one side of the doorway if there's room.

Mrs. G. L. R. "Would there be too much color in my living room if I painted the walls light blue and bought a violet carpet, to go with a persimmon leather sofa and white leather chairs? What color do you suggest for draperies and other colors for the walls and carpet?"

A grayed blue, light for the walls and deeper for the carpet, would promise more success for the dorf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beyersdorf, route 2, Wittenberg, blue might have a slight amethyst tinge, and amethyst toward violet Linda Kolpack, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Kolpack, LaPuen, draperies might match the walls te, Calif., April 25 in Silver Bell and have spare pattern in brown to tie in the furniture woods, or be white with simple, light patterning in blue. Golden Agers Plan 'Night in Hawaii'

MENASHA — The 10th annual banquet of Menasha Golden Agers will be Thursday at St. Mary School cafeteria. Reservations may be made until May 29 by calling N. A. Brunner.

Theme of the party is "A Night in Hawaii." Master of ceremonies will be Kenneth Farasworth. Guest speaker is Judge Arnold Cane.

Kim and Lolly Madsuda will present native Hawaiian dances. Madeline Lundquist will direct a quartet composed of Connie Cosgrove, Ruth Gutschow, Gloria Grant and Ruth Fletcher.

Several Hawaiian numbers will be presented by Kimlarks, as well as McDowell Choir, Appleton, under the direction of Norman Tonn.

Neenah Golden Agers have also been invited and may make reservations either through Neenah Recreation Department or by calling Mr. Brunner.

Tell Delegates To National Convention

Purdue University, West Lafayette, Ind., will be the setting for the national meeting of United Presbyterian Women June 26 to July 1. Mrs. Elbert Norton and Mrs. Elmer Mokros will represent Memorial Presbyterian Church, Appleton, at the conclave.

Topics to be considered at the meeting are the role of women as parents and members of families, as teachers, counselors and school administrators, as women employed outside the home, and as women in Church and Society.

Below in the den is what Mrs. Lindberg jokingly refers to as the "Rogue's Gallery." Pictures of family vacations, trips and happenings in the couple's lives are all depicted here.

Japanese silk prints cover the walls in the hallway. At right is one panel. Lavender, black, turquoise and white are used and present a pretty picture against an off-white background. Visitors will see this upon entering the front door of the Lindberg home at 1976 Palisades Drive.

Cool Beauty, Elegance and Charm All Present in Eric Lindberg Home

Elegance is the keynote in the Eric Lindberg home at 1976 Palisades Drive, another of the homes open for Charity and Genevieve Paulson Circles' "Homes in Review" tour Thursday.

White carpeting and white silk wall coverings give depth and a feeling of spaciousness to the rooms. Turquoise and lavender accents lend color to the delightfully furnished house.

The organ, piano and phonograph dominate the cool beauty of the living room, testifying to the principal interest of Mrs. Lindberg.

A pre-wedding dinner will be the dominate theme in the Lindberg residence, carrying out the "Setting for Brides" theme.

A Pleasant View of the outside gardens is available from the dining room of the Lindberg residence. Simple and classic elegance is the keynote of this tastefully decorated home.

Kaukauna Alumni Mark Anniversary

Kaukauna High School Alumni Association observed the 25th anniversary of its reorganization April 5. The group, one of the most active high school alumni groups in the state, began in 1936 with about sixty graduates. Superintendent of Schools James Cavanaugh, and the Board of Education. Elected president of the board was Joseph C. McCarty.

Other officers were Lester Brenzel, vice president; Miss Margaret Kline, secretary, and Mrs. Pearl Aufreiter, treasurer.

Publish Paper The Alumni News, published yearly before Rally Day, started in 1937. The paper has grown from four pages of news in 1940 to double that size. It contains stories about graduates, Rally Day plans, the Rallymaster, classes who will celebrate anniversaries and features about alumni.

During the organization's early years, it helped the students carry out extra-curricular activities. Among these were floats for pep parades at homecoming celebrations, and the sponsoring of junior proms. At that time, more than half of those attending the proms were alumni. At the present time, such events are arranged by the students under the supervision of school advisors.

Original Group The parent organization of the Club lady golfers at 9:30 a.m. present group was formed in 1933. The Rev. Percy Gibson was elected president and the members met yearly until 1907. The alumni group then became inactive until 1930, when an occasional dinner was held for groups of graduates who were in the area at that time.

Present Rallies are held at Van Abel's Restaurant, Hollandtown. Approximately 700 alumni attend the annual dinner and dance.

Honor Alumnus One of the highlights of the yearly program is the presentation of the Rallymaster, a graduate who has achieved success in the business world since his graduation from Kaukauna High School. The Alumni Award is also presented at that time. This is a bronze plaque awarded to an outstanding member of the faculty or a local citizen who has contributed toward the betterment of the school. Officers are named to serve on the association's board of directors and out-of-town alumni are introduced.

Jerry Klister, class of 1944, is currently president of the organization.

Women Golfers At Riverview Plan Breakfast A warm-up golf breakfast will be held by Riverview Country Club lady golfers at 9:30 a.m. Thursday. Mrs. Paul Tepper is in charge of arrangements.

Team play will begin June 6. Mrs. Wilmer Stach and Mrs. Tepper are golfing chairmen.

Cassini Designs for Jackie

These sketches were released by the White House showing what Mrs. Kennedy will wear this week while on a state visit to France. Wednesday Mrs. Kennedy will wear a dinner gown described as a one-shouldered dress with black panel from the side; white organza over yellow organza and jeweled embroidery at the hem and border of the black panel as well as delicate overall embroidery. It will be worn with a matching sleeveless coat to Pres. Charles DeGaulle's dinner at Elysee Palace. The coat she took along is a pale turquoise lightweight wool with low pockets with a bow at the waist and slightly flared skirt. Below are two dresses she packed for her visit. The one on the left is a pale chartreuse lightweight wool with a loosely tied belt and slightly flared skirt featuring low box pleats. It will be worn with a loosely fitted, matching jacket. At right is a turquoise and white plaid sheer wool dress. It is collarless with a low self belt.

First Lady Repeats Wardrobe in Paris

BY FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy is proving she's not afraid to be seen twice for members of congress.

The White House announced Mrs. Kennedy's wardrobe for the Paris visit today. It included seven items, all but two by her exclusive designer, Paris-born Oleg Cassini of New York.

Mrs. Kennedy has selected a pale blue wool coat and a navy blue silk suit from Chez Ninon, a Park Avenue dress shop in New York, where members of the Kennedy family have shopped for years.

Spokesmen for Mrs. Kennedy have predicted she will often be seen in the same outfit, but it came as a surprise that she would do a repeat in Paris.

At the welcoming dinner and reception Wednesday night at Elysee Palace, Mrs. Kennedy will wear a one-shouldered dress of white organza over yellow organza, with a black panel from the side. She showed it off in Washington at a recent dinner for visiting President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia.

For the only other white tie dinner in Paris, a gala event Thursday night in the Hall of Mirrors at the Versailles, where Louis XIV once held sway, Mrs. Kennedy will appear in a pink and white straw lace she previously wore at a White House reception.

It specializes in custom made clothes, including copies of French designs.

Ordered From Sketches Mrs. Kennedy's purchases were ordered from sketches and were the result of "an exchange of ideas," her secretary said.

Although Mrs. Kennedy's trip abroad with the president includes stops at Vienna and London, the White House made no announcement of clothes for her appearances there or for the sightseeing tour she plans in Greece afterward with her sister, Princess Stanislaus Radziwill of London.

Mrs. Kennedy has been relaxing for the past week at the presidential estate in Middleburg.

She'll wear them again at two big state dinners with President Kennedy and Mrs. Kennedy, a and Mrs. Charles De Gaulle in Paris — one at Elysee Palace and the other at fabulous Versailles.

For the only other white tie dinner in Paris, a gala event Thursday night in the Hall of Mirrors at the Versailles, where Louis XIV once held sway, Mrs. Kennedy will appear in a pink and white straw lace she previously wore at a White House reception.

It specializes in custom made clothes, including copies of French designs.

Ordered From Sketches Mrs. Kennedy's purchases were ordered from sketches and were the result of "an exchange of ideas," her secretary said.

Although Mrs. Kennedy's trip abroad with the president includes stops at Vienna and London, the White House made no announcement of clothes for her appearances there or for the sightseeing tour she plans in Greece afterward with her sister, Princess Stanislaus Radziwill of London.

Mrs. Kennedy has been relaxing for the past week at the presidential estate in Middleburg.

She'll wear them again at two big state dinners with President Kennedy and Mrs. Kennedy, a and Mrs. Charles De Gaulle in Paris — one at Elysee Palace and the other at fabulous Versailles.

Spokesmen for Mrs. Kennedy have predicted she will often be seen in the same outfit, but it came as a surprise that she would do a repeat in Paris.

tricks you need for six no-trump? If you try the heart finesse and lose, you will need the club finesse.

This gives you the chance for one out of two finessses. The odds are 3 to 1 in your favor, but you still haven't given yourself a chance for four club tricks.

Suppose you win the first diamond in dummy and lead the queen of clubs for a finesse. If the finesse wins, you can switch to hearts to assure the slam. If the club finesse loses, you may get the chance to cash the ace, and jack of clubs before hearts are played. The suit may break 3-3, in which case you will have 12 tricks without needing a heart finesse.

Heart Return The trouble is that West may be unkind enough to win the king of clubs and return a heart. Then you must decide for or against the heart finesse before you have found out how the clubs break.

A third line of play preserves all possibilities. Win the first diamond in your own hand and lead the low club!

If West takes the king of clubs, you will get four club tricks even though the suit breaks 4-2. You won't need the heart finesse. If West plays low instead of taking his king, dummy wins with the queen. Then you switch to hearts to assure the slam.

If East has the king of clubs he will capture dummy's queen but cannot trouble you with a

I can't imagine anyone receiving a gift and not giving sincere thanks in one way or another. Even a kind and thoughtful deed gets a thank you. I hope that somehow all of the that "thank you" are two wonderful words along with the sincere implication "from the bottom of my heart." It makes the giver and the thoughtful deed-doer feel that the effort was well worth comment that some of the class while.

Your Problems

Clerk Not Obligated to Help Customers Cheat Government

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I work in a drug store. I've been asked to do all sorts of favors for customers and I don't mind, but when customers ask me to help them cheat the government, I think this is going too far. A certain woman comes in often and buys lots of cosmetics, perfumes, sun-tan lotion, candy and so on. Then she buys a bottle of vitamins and an occasional prescription and wants me to describe it all as "medicinal supplies." I know she does this marriage so she can take it all off her income tax, since medicinal supplies are deductible.

Yesterday she bought $21 worth of cosmetics and a bottle of cough syrup. When I gave her an itemized statement she was furious and said I was only an employee and that I should do as I was told.

She claims that what she does is none of my business. How about this?—Working Girl

Dear Girl: What she does is none of your business—but when she asks you to help her do something dishonest it becomes your business, too. You were right to refuse to be a party to her penny-ante chiseling. Furthermore, if her income tax returns are ever checked, the phony deductions will be disallowed. The Internal Revenue experts are wise to all the risky-dinks.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need help and please don't tell me to see my clergyman because he's my uncle and I couldn't face him with this.

Over a year ago I married a lovely girl. We met in college and went together for three years. She was a shy person who was determined to "save herself for marriage"—which she certainly did. The problem is, she is still "saving herself."

The physical part of our life together is almost non-existent. She stays up late at night ironing or reading, or she goes to bed early, with a headache, a back ache or just "exhausted." I've tried ignoring the matter for weeks at a time, but it's appar-

Your wife is not only being unfair to you but also to herself. Insist that she seek outside help at once. She needs it desperately.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A girl in our office has been wearing the same skirt for over five months. The exact date on which she started to wear this skirt was December 27, 1960. The reason we know is because she wore a previous skirt every day for six months.

I finally got up the nerve to ask her about this. She told me she'd much rather buy one skirt at a time and wear it out. The girl is neat and clean and changes sweaters and blouses every few days, so please don't misunderstand. The question is: Why does she do this?—Typing Pool

This Indian Effigy mounds plaque, in the southeast corner of Menasha's Smith Park, was dedicated Sunday. From left are Dr. Robert Ritzenthaler, Milwaukee Public Museum anthropology curator; Dean

Chandler Rowe of Lawrence College; Mrs. John H. Witherding, Menasha Historical Society president; and Linus Pfankuch, park and recreation board chairman.

Menasha Plaque Commemorates Ancient Wisconsin Indian Tribe

Marker Dedicated in Sunday Observance at Smith Park

MENASHA — Commemorating Smith Park to the heirs of Elisha D. Smith, pioneer industrialist, of a millennium ago a green and white plaque erected in Smith Park was dedicated in the city of Menasha Sunday afternoon.

Mayor John Klein accepted the marker for the city from Mrs. John H. Witherding, president of the Menasha Historical Society. The plaque was donated by the George Banta Foundation, a subsidiary of George Banta Co.

Mrs. Witherding criticized a recent letter to the editor, written by Robert E. Nordlander of Menasha to the Post-Crescent which suggested the city deed back Smith Park to the heirs of Elisha D. Smith, pioneer industrialist. "His letter incensed me," Mrs. Witherding said.

Park Donated

Mrs. Witherding told the dedication audience that Smith, who founded Menasha Wooden Ware Corp., donated the park "not to inflate his ego, but to be a place of beauty and loveliness, which it has been for his benefit, this is a Sunday afternoon, and we are not the women's temperance society. We are the Menasha Historical Society."

In his letter, Nordlander protested the 1897 park donation terms, which prohibited beer drinking and Sunday meetings, except those of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. He suggested letting the park title revert to the Smith family, and let the Smiths police it or give it to the city without restrictions.

Rowe Speaks

Dean Chandler Rowe, Lawrence College anthropologist, noted that such burial mounds, usually 2½ feet high, up to 300 feet long and in some animal's shape, are "distinctively Wisconsin Indian phenomena."

Through the years, with public improvements, many Indian mounds have been lost and "without interested groups such as this to preserve them, the mounds could disappear," Rowe noted.

The mounds were constructed by Indians, but the tribe, probably nomadic, was not recorded or identified. "They represent something important, the disposition of the dead. The mounds may represent the Indians' personal guardian spirit. They are found in many shapes, panther, lizards, birds, bears, possibly men," Rowe said mounds normally were on promontories above water. All in Wisconsin probably were built about the same time.

Rowe this summer will excavate in similar burial mounds in High Cliff State Forest Park.

Introduced were John Retwink, of Oshkosh, who made the drawings for the plaque, George Banta Jr. and John H. Witherding, of George Banta Co.; Linus Pfankuch, park and recreation board chairman; Harry Kargus, park superintendent; and Jay Joslyn and Frank Rosch, historical society board members.

Attorney Asks Revocation of Bar License

OSHKOSH—Revocation of the tavern license of the National Tavern at 110 W. 7th Ave., Oshkosh, was asked of Circuit Judge H. F. Arps by District Atty. Jack Steinhilber.

The tavern is operated by Norman Hedtke, 1622 Kentucky St., Oshkosh, who on April 10 admitted selling "tips" in his tavern. Hedtke was arrested April 8 and was fined $154.85 in municipal court April 10.

Steinhilber brought the revocation request under the state's anti-gambling law, filing his petition with the circuit court on April 20.

Hedtke's attorney this morning argued that the law was unconstitutional and requires action within 10 days after the offense. The revocation permit was filed after the 10-day period had elapsed, he said.

Judge Arps instructed the defense attorney to file a brief and the district attorney to file a reply brief.

Rural Fremont Man Injured in Car Crash

MENASHA — Lloyd Spacina, 22, route 1, Fremont, was reported in fair condition at Theda Clark Memorial Hospital today. His car left State 114 and struck a utility pole east of Menasha at 1:30 a.m. today.

Explorer Scouts from Post 10, Trinity Lutheran Church, Appleton, cleaned the statue on Soldiers' Square Sunday in preparation for Memorial Day. The statue was presented to the George D. Eggleston Post of the Grand Army of the Republic by Albert W. Priest in remembrance of his brother, James E. Priest, who died in camp on Dec. 28, 1861.

New Attitude Seen in Care Of County Mental Patients

St. Mary's High Has Class of 137

St. Norbert President Speaks At Graduation at Menasha School

MENASHA — "Man is born to do something," members of St. Mary High School's 33rd graduating class were told Sunday by the Rev. Dennis M. Burke, president of St. Norbert College.

Father Burke exhorted the 137 graduates to realize that "the core of this philosophy is that you are created with a soul destined for heaven. The world cannot be your guide. Behind all of nature you must ever see the pattern and plan of a divine mind."

Also marking the commencement exercises was presentation of the religion medals, to Roger Le Bouton and Donna Kessler. They are picked by secret ballot to best represent active Catholicism, loyalty to authority, good citizenship, cooperation and adherence to good principles regardless of what others think.

Father Burke challenged each graduate "to make ready your own reply. Are you going to be a hanger-on, a follower, dependent on others to give you a living, a seeker after paternalistic government support? Or are you going to prove yourself an inventor of great things, a producer of great ideas, a leader in drawing yourself and other men to successful living?"

God has created you as an individual. It is your responsibility to do things that lead to success — in this life and in the world to come."

The speaker contended "a Castro can arise only in the squalor of ignorance and listless living. Alert and ready Christian men and women would never have permitted his rise to power. In Hungary and Poland, Cuba and Czechoslovakia, all of us in a certain sense have been asleep at the switch."

Growth of privately financed religious schools from grade to university levels, side by side with public schools, "seems providential," for the former "do great service to America by providing a wholesome balance in the multitude of educational trends and at times a loyal opposition to materialistic trends and viewpoints."

The individual is most important as Christ's arms. "Those arms must be stretched out to all the problems of the world that men may be drawn to the principles of Christian living. You are the arms that must speak and act for Christ Without you, Christ cannot triumph. . . . You, as just one more individual being, are important, because you are prepared."

Father Burke illustrated his final point with the story of a statue of Christ whose arms had been blown off in World War II. An American soldier attached a

New Drugs, Treatment Mean Commitment No Longer Indicates Chronic Insanity, Loerke Says

"We're here to help them, not just to house them."

This statement by Thomas Lesselyong, Outagamie County Hospital social service director, sums up the attitude with which the hospital is entering what its superintendent, Norbert Loerke, call a new era for Wisconsin's county mental hospitals.

A recent report by the Citizens' Advisory Committee on Community Mental Health Resources criticized the state's 35 county hospitals in general for not trying more than they do to treat patients and return them to their communities.

The state mental health act provides that county courts may commit to county hospitals patients who the court thinks have chronic mental disturbances. An examination by three physicians, one of whom has psychiatric training if available, is required before commitment.

But since therapy and tranquilizing drugs have come into common use, the fact that a person is in a county hospital no longer indicates that he is chronically insane, Loerke said.

Since July 1, 1953, the 300-bed Outagamie County Hospital has released 37 patients, four of which later returned and one of which was released for a second time. Six probably will be released during the first half of this year. 300 four-year scholarships for AF-1 hospital re-evaluates the case of any patient asking it.

Another 101 patients have been transferred to other hospitals since 1953. Some of these went to state hospitals which offered more psychiatric services. Others were moved so they could be closer to relatives.

The major obstacle to releasing patients, Lesselyong said, is the lack of financial resources and understanding by relatives and friends. The hospital administrators want well patients to return to the community, but not

Man Slightly Hurt as Car Goes Over Bank

William Wenske, 50, 900 E. Winnebago St., received only slight cuts Sunday evening after his car plunged over the embankment at the overpass at U.S. 41 and 10 and rolled three or four times.

Wenske told Outagamie County police he was trying to pass a car on 41 where the highway narrows from four lanes to two lanes. The car got into loose gravel, went out of control and bounced over the embankment off a guardrail, police said.

The auto was demolished.

Menasha Man To Give Talk

Robert Bachhuber To be at Freedom Memorial Day Rites

FREEDOM — Robert Bachhuber, Menasha, a former Freedom resident and VFW post commander, will speak at Memorial Day services Tuesday evening at St. Nicholas Catholic Church cemetery.

Bachhuber will talk after a short service at the grave of a soldier, Corneal De Jong, commander of the VFW post in Freedom, will be master of ceremonies.

The Rev. Alfred Hietpas, pastor of St. Nicholas Church, will give the invocation.

Plan Parade

A parade will assemble at the VFW clubhouse and move through town to the cemetery.

Color guards will be Mark De-Coster, Vic Roes, Gene Gonnering and Joseph Rickert. The firing squad will be Ray Schommer, Orville Green, James Flynn, Tom Appleton, Jack Van Den Berg, Harold Coenen, Tony Dickereil, Robert Geurts and Jim Ludwig.

Officer of the Day will be Merle Schommer and Chaplain Jack Renkens.

Services also will be at the Moravian church cemetery in the morning by the VFW.

Professor to Study Atoms

Instructor From Lawrence to Go To Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Dr. William P. Gilbert, Sawyer Professor of Physics at Lawrence College, will travel to Oak Ridge, Tenn., in June for eight weeks of a advanced study in nuclear phenomena and practice on a grant to the college from the Atomic Energy Commission.

Gilbert is in the specialized institute, a new program sponsored by the AEC, will be limited to a group of 20 physics teachers selected from colleges of Lawrence's size-range throughout the United States.

Included in the institute program will be instruction on quantum theory, neutron physics, and reactor theory, with laboratory work covering radiation, instrumentation, and neutron and solid state physics.

Will Lecture

Lecturing will be some of the outstanding scientists from Oak Ridge National Laboratory and the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies. The radioisotope laboratory and reactor facilities of Oak Ridge will be used.

Dr. Gilbert spent four weeks at Oak Ridge last summer as part of a group of 70 from the U.S. and the world, reviewing principles and methods of radioisotope methodology. His work in this field correlates with the donation to the college by the AEC last fall of over $8,000 worth of equipment for low-level radiation experiments.

Accompanying her husband to Oak Ridge will be Dr. Margaret Gilbert, Associate Professor of Biology at the college, who will be using the libraries and facilities of both the National Laboratory and the Institute of Nuclear Studies as she works toward completion of a textbook on the embryology of the rat.

U. S. 41 Congested

Cars to Crowd Major Roads Memorial Day

Major highways in the Fox Cities area are expected to be abnormally crowded Tuesday as Memorial Day travelers stream home.

Capt. Lewis Versnik, commander of State Patrol District Three, said a special traffic control plan had to be put into effect Friday when vacationers headed away from home.

Congestion was especially heavy on the two lane stretches of U.S. 41 north of Fond du Lac, Versnik said. U. S. 45 was also heavily traveled.

Both the state patrol and county patrols reported few accidents over the weekend.

Versnik urged local motorists and travelers to stay off of U. S. 41 Tuesday. State highway 141 and 57 will be much less crowded, he advised.

'Best Thespians' Honored at NHS

NEENAH — William Bayley and Bonnie Krull have won the "Best Thespian" awards at Neenah High School. They, with other thespians, debaters and forensic team members will be honored at a dinner tonight at the Menasha Elks Club.

Officers for the Thespian Club next year will be Hans Christoferson, president; William Dayvice president; Sara Kurtz, secretary; Maryanne Mueller, historian, and Mollie Harker, treasurer.

Neenah Girl Still Unconscious From Auto Accident

NEENAH—Carla M. Bart, 16, 227 E. Doty Ave., has not regained consciousness at Theda Clark Memorial Hospital. She was injured in an automobile accident May 20.

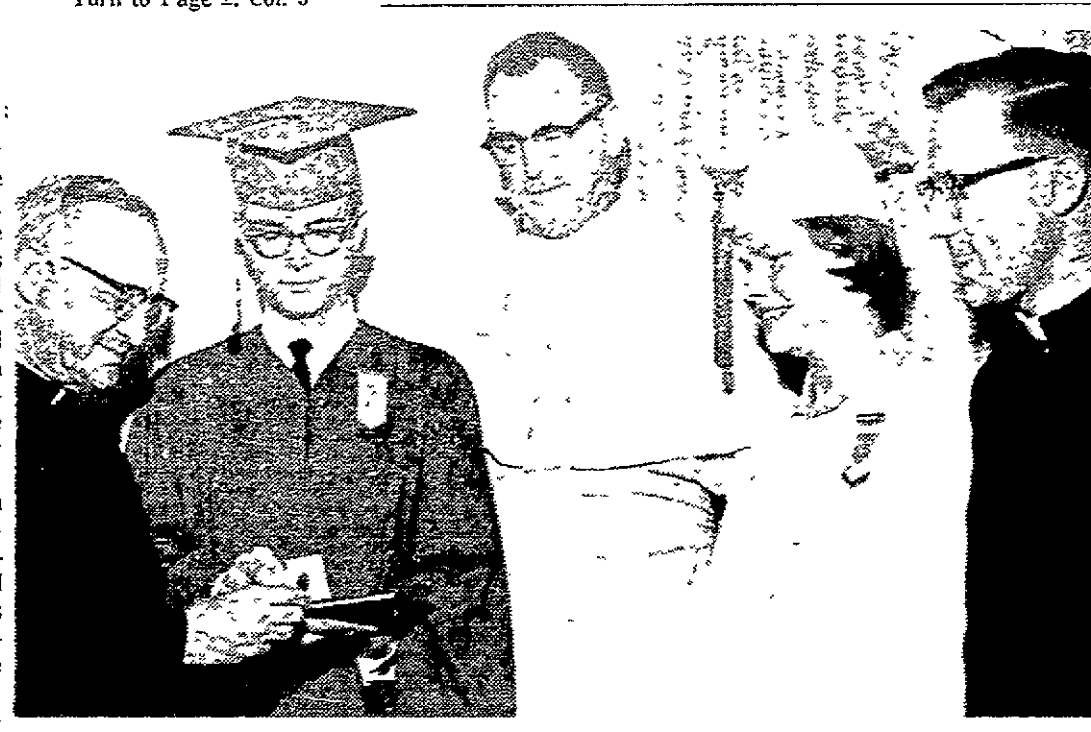

Miss Bart was a passenger in a car that rolled over on a town road a mile west of U.S. 45 and south of State 150 on May 20. Her condition remains critical.

Charles Spahit, 62, 919 Wright St., Oshkosh, reportedly remains in serious condition. He was injured in an auto crash May 18 on U.S. 41 south of Neenah which claimed the lives of a Kaukauna woman and an Oshkosh man.

Lynchburg Firm Low Bidder on Iron Pipe

NEENAH—Lynchburg Foundry Co., Lynchburg, Va., was low bidder on cast iron pipe for the Neenah Water Works Commission. The bid for 4,000 feet of six-inch pipe was $2.09 per foot or $330 per ton.

Other bidders were James B. Clow and Sons, Inc., $2.125 per foot; Valley Supply Corp., $2.17; Griffin Pipe Division, $2.205; United States Pipe and Foundry Co., $2.22; Gamorgan Pipe and Foundry Co., $2.22, and American Cast Iron Co., $2.23.

Fast, That Is Rep. Byrnes Going to Night School to Learn How to Read

BY FRANCES McUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

Washington—Rep. John W. Byrnes, Green Bay, who has received two degrees from the University of Wisconsin, is going to night school to learn how to read.

This "Back to School" activity of the Wisconsin Republican is not as fantastic as it seems. A score or more of other Congressmen and their aides also have signed up for a course in "rapid reading," which is held one evening a week for two and a half hours on Capitol Hill. Beside the actual classroom time, the course entails considerable homework, but Byrnes feels that it will be well worth the time and effort.

25 Students Questioned by Authorities

Twenty-five Appleton Senior High School juniors were questioned at the Outagamie County Sheriff's office this morning by the officers who took away their beer at a beer party Friday night.

The youth's names will be given to the county welfare department. Welfare workers will contact the students. Then the welfare workers will make recommendations to the Juvenile Court.

About 50 of 200 boys and girls that poured into a gravel pit in the Town of Oneida for the annual junior class beer party were ordered to appear at the sheriff's office this morning. The ones that didn't appear will be contacted by sheriff's officers.

Four law enforcement officers, acting on tips, arrived at the beer party scene, confiscated beer and took names.

unless they have the good homes, friends and money for tranquilizers so they will remain mentally healthy. Although release remains conditional for one year, the hospital has no jurisdiction over released patients.

Shorter Stays

Patients entering the hospital within the last five years have had shorter average stays than those who were committed in the past, the hospital officials said.

One reason for this is that the hospital is getting fewer retarded people, who once were transferred to the hospitals from the state colonies and training schools. The colonies and other schools for the retarded are doing a better job now in training the mentally deficient to do useful work. Loerke observed. He predicted the hospital

Land Acquisition Brings Protests

Door County Residents Claim That Plan Would be Harmful to Them

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Property owners of Door County have protested to the legislature that Gov. Nelson's ambitious program for recreational land acquisition and development may be harmful to their interests as individual residents of the peninsula.

With Assemblyman Lawrence

Johnson of Door and Kewaunee counties as their spokesman, the dissenting delegation filed petitions with more than 400 names with the legislative conservation committees holding hearings on the governor's $50 million so-called "crash" program for outdoor recreational development over the next 10 years.

They also asked for amendments of the Nelson bill that would permit the state to acquire and develop park and camping and other public lands in any county only with the consent of the county board, and in any town only with the explicit approval of the town board.

Johnson recalled that the two state parks in Door County now cover more than 4,600 acres of land. They could be developed to permit more intensive use if additional recreational development is thought to be needed in that vacation country. The county now has 14 parks of its own and the state has other hunting and fishing area projects in process of acquisition there.

May Hurt Tax He said further state land buying in Door County might jeopardize the tax bases of the localities, and interfere with private farm, home and resort ownership.

His comments made it apparent that the principal resistance to the Door County projects as listed by Nelson in his bill providing for priorities is to the suggested Europe Lake recreational area development in the town of Liberty Grove, in northern Door County. The governor has also called for state acquisition of lands in the Whitefish Bay region bordering Green Bay southward.

If the Europe lake area is controlled or acquired by the state, it may interfere with the rights of private owners who have invested heavily in homes and other properties, he said.

He said however, he "saluted the President on his plan to reorganize the Pentagon, which could result in substantial savings."

Rep. Vernon W. Thomson, R., Richland Center, commented tersely "the President's speech may have been good astronomy but it was poor economy. Mr. Kennedy's budget will reach the moon before his astronaut does."

Rep. John W. Byrnes, Green Bay, chairman of the House Republican Policy Committee is withholding his comments pending a speech he will make on the message on the House floor in the near future.

Complete Investigation Of Gen. Edwin Walker

HEIDELBERG, Germany (AP) — The U.S. Army has completed its investigation of a newspaper story about Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, U.S. Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr Jr., said today.

The results of the investigation have been sent to Washington and will be released there, Stahr told a news conference.

Walker, former commander of the 24th Infantry Division, was relieved of his command on orders of President Kennedy last month after The Overseas Weekly, a privately owned tabloid newspaper printed for servicemen in Germany, published a story that he had subjected his troops to propaganda from right-wing John Birch Society.

UW Will Grant 2,400 Degrees At Graduation

MADISON (AP) — The University of Wisconsin will award degrees to 2,400 students from 44 nations at the 1961 commencement June 5.

The university said that 65 per cent of the graduates are from Wisconsin and represent every county in the state.

Bachelor degrees will go to 1,600 students. Advanced degrees will go to 700 and law or medical degrees to 165.

The foreign nations represented in the 108th graduating class range from Nigeria to Norway and from Australia to Venezuela.

In addition, students from 42 states and the District of Columbia will be among the graduates.

Modine Sales Up Slightly; State's Taxes Criticized

RACINE (AP) — The Modine Mfg. Co. has reported that sales during the fiscal year ending March 31 were up "nominal" — $400,000 — to $31.6 million, while profits gained 27 per cent, to $304,000 during the period.

Modine President A. G. Dixon termed the profit of 2.5 per cent of sales "plainly inadequate," and noted that the company feels it essential "to make more competitive its multi-plant operations at Racine, La Porte, Ind., Paducah, Kentucky, and Whittier, Calif."

He indicated this would be achieved "by eliminating unprofitable products and working to attain improved labor productivity."

Dixon said that with Modine headquarters in Racine, the Wisconsin state tax structure was a competitive handicap. The state's taxes on industry, he said, are "severely disadvantageous to our company, which ships more than 95 per cent of its products outside the state."

22 FVL Students To Take Bus Trip To East Coast

A chartered bus with 22 Fox Valley Lutheran High 1961 graduates is scheduled to leave the school at 12:01 a.m. June 5 for a week-long trip to the East coast.

The itinerary includes visits to Gettysburg battlefields and the Naval Academy at Annapolis, a visit with Sen. Alexander Wiley, watching the Senate in session, tours of Washington, Arlington and Mount Vernon, cookouts at Niagara Falls and five other stops, and a ferry trip across Lake Michigan.

Gerald Mallmann, science teacher, is tour director.

McMillan, Mrs. William McGoe, Mrs. Robert Rogers (wife of a Menasha chapter board member), Mrs. Donald Ehler, Mrs. Robert Bayer, Mrs. Alfred Becher, Mrs. Florence Hinkens and Mrs. Carl Snyder.

Note Trouble Aboard Slow Boat to Alaska

SEATTLE (AP) — "Had pears for dessert."

That wistful statement ended the daily report received from a tugboat en route to Alaska. The rest of the message read: "Uneventful day. Good weather. Cook had three apple pies on rail cooling. Seagull scored direct hit on one, stood in the second and ate the third. Cook was mad at seagull. Had pears for dessert."

WANT ADS are for EVERYBODY

Like most of the fellows in my graduating class, I will not need to read the help wanted ads to find a job after graduation. The jobs are looking for us! My Dad says that when he graduated he studied the Want Ads for weeks to find a job, and he scratches his head in amazement at the way things have changed. But not everything has changed because I plan to make good use of the Want Ads to find an apartment near my new job. I'll read them to find furniture if I need it, and I'll read them when I get ready to look for a good used car. Dad is right when he says that while some circumstances change, the Want Ads still perform a unique service for everybody.

Pipeline to be Laid In Calumet County

285-Mile Stretch to Carry Petroleum Products From Indiana to Green Bay

CHILTON — Pipeline installation crews are expected to begin work in Calumet County by mid June laying the portion of the 285-mile, Hammond, Ind., to Green Bay refined petroleum products pipeline.

To be constructed by the Westshore Pipeline Co., the line will originate near the Hammond refineries. It will consist of a 16-inch tube from Hammond to Milwaukee where it will be reduced to 10 and three-quarter inches, its diameter from Milwaukee to Green Bay where the line will end.

The pipeline will be used to supply the major communities it passes through with a variety of refined petroleum products including gasoline and fuel oil. It will not carry natural gas as many believe. R. E. Witty, a representative of the pipeline company, emphasized.

Divide Products
Witty explained there are a number of methods whereby the same pipeline can be used to carry a number of fluid petroleum products without them mixing. Precise regulation of pressure is one method and other was placement of divider blocks between the various products.

The pipeline will enter Calumet County from Sheboygan County at the south county line and will run north for about 15 miles parallel to and several miles west of the Calumet - Manitowoc County line. The line will pass through the towns of New Holstein, Charlestown and Rantoul.

Just before entering the Town of Brillion present plans call for leaving a will and with no living descendants. Both the state and federal government claimed the residue of the estate, $3,326.

Judge McHenry ruled that the state is entitled to the estate on the grounds that Millington's application for admission to the home contained a provision stipulating that his estate be left to the home if there are no living descendants.

Federal Claim
Joseph A. Blatecky, assistant United States attorney general, claimed that the United States was entitled to the estate because the money paid to Millington came through the Veterans Administration from funds

State Wins Claim to Vet's Estate

King Resident Left $3,326, Federal Unit Fought for Funds

WAUPACA — Conflicting claims of the state and federal governments over the residue of an estate left by a Spanish-American War veteran was resolved in favor of the state by Judge Wendell McHenry.

Douglas W. Millington, a veteran who lived at the Grand Army Home for Veterans in King, died Jan. 21, 1960, without leaving a will and with no living descendants. Both the state and federal government claimed the residue of the estate, $3,326.

Judge McHenry ruled that the state is entitled to the estate on the grounds that Millington's application for admission to the home contained a provision stipulating that his estate be left to the home if there are no living descendants.

FVL Seniors Honored at Award Fete

Seniors who achieved high scholastic averages were honored at the annual awards program at Fox Valley Lutheran High School Sunday night.

Cited as the four top seniors of the class were Ruth Dahlke, Weyauwega, Kathryn Ehlke, Appleton; David Gosdeck, Kaukauna, and Judith Olson, Appleton.

Miss Dahlke was awarded a $1,200 scholarship to Lawrence College and Miss Ehlke received a $700 scholarship to Valparaiso University.

Audrey Korth was awarded a $100 scholarship from the Appleton Business and Professional Women's Club. She will attend Milwaukee Lutheran Teacher's College.

received from the federal government

Roy G. Mita, state assistant attorney general, supported the provision in the application for admission to the home which provides: "If any member of the home shall die without legal dependents his real property shall descend to the state of Wisconsin as sole heir for the position with the Hersch Construction Co., Columbus, Ohio. The Army Home for Veterans, King,"

"If admitted as a member to the home do you subscribe and bind yourself to this provision?" the application asks. Millington wrote "yes" to the question and signed the application.

Judge McHenry ruled Oct. 26, 1960, in favor of the state and an appeal was filed on behalf of the federal government with the State Supreme Court Dec. 14, 1960.

By agreement of the attorneys for state and federal governments, the appeal was dismissed March 3, 1961.

The final order for distribution of the estate to the state for use at the Grand Army Home was signed Tuesday by Judge McHenry in Probate Court.

Raymond Fallon Gets Life Membership in Pioneer Association

A life membership in the Fox Valley Council of Telephone Pioneers of America was presented Saturday to Raymond C. Fallon at a party at Appleton Elks Club.

Fallon retired from the Wisconsin Telephone Co. about a month ago. He was division construction superintendent.

Since his retirement from the Wisconsin firm he has taken a position with the Hersch Construction Co., Columbus, Ohio. The company specializes in building communications systems.

Fallon is well known for the job improvement techniques and labor saving devices he developed.

Among these are a pre-cast manhole, used by a number of utility firms and techniques and equipment for moving pole lines without disrupting service, lowering underground conduit and for pulling poles out of the ground. He also devised methods for transferring loaded crossarms from one pole to another, a faster and more economical way to push pipe underground at road crossings and for safely unloading cable reels from box cars.

Fallon is a founder and past president of the Appleton Curling Club.

As regional winners, the two college co-eds will represent this area in the Alice in Dairyland finals June 22-24 at Marshfield when one of 20 finalists from the 10 regions will be selected to represent the Wisconsin dairy industry in a fabulous cycle of activities throughout the United States.

Miss Dushek, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Dushek, 322 Jefferson St., is completing her sophomore year at the University of Wisconsin where she is majoring in art.

Active on Campus

She is a graduate of Waupaca High School and was chosen to attend Badger Girls' State and a music clinic. She also was active in the Girl Scouts and Methodist Youth Fellowship.

She is a member of the Wisconsin Student Association, the Co-Eds Congress and the Gamma Phi Beta Sorority. She has one brother and two sisters.

Great Industry
Miss Leemon, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Leemon, Eldorado, is a freshman at Oshkosh State College, majoring in lower elementary education. She is a graduate of Rosendale High School and attended the Business School in AirLines Communication in Minneapolis, Minn., for four months.

While at high school, she was active in the Future Homemakers of America, 4-H Club, the high school glee club and reigned as prom queen. She also was elected fair queen at the high school.

Lawrence Alumnus

Receives Award at Harvard Class Day

David R. Challoner, a Lawrence College alumnus with the class of 1956 whose home is in Green Bay received the Harvard Medical Alumni Association award Saturday at the annual class day ceremony of the Harvard medical and dental schools at Cambridge, Mass.

Challoner's award was presented "in recognition of his all-around ability and well balanced personality," the citation stated. He was one of 14 members of the graduating classes of the two schools honored at the ceremony. At Lawrence, he was named the winner of the Spector cup as the all-around senior; the Lewis prize as the senior of most excellent scholastic record; was a Phi Beta Kappa and Vace member, president of the student body, and winner of the Warren Hurst Stevens prize as a junior.

In 1958 Challoner was awarded a post-sophomore research fellowship by the U S Public Health Service for a year of study at King's College, Cambridge, England.

Challoner's grandfather, W. Ray Challoner, formerly was a teacher at Appleton Vocational School. The student's father, Reynolds R. Challoner, is resident manager of Employers' Mutual Insurance Co at Green Bay.

Police Catch Boys Who Broke Windows

MENASHA—Police have apprehended two 10-year-old boys who admit shattering 55 windows in the Milwaukee Road diesel locomotive storage house at Fourth and Appleton streets and throwing a brick through a truck window.

The boys and their parents will confer with Police Chief Peter P. Clark and Lt. William E. Rahn, Green Bay, of the railroad police, on restitution for the damage.

The truck is owned by Valley Lumber and Fuel Co., 309 Appleton St.

Carl Poole Gets Public Relations Post for AAL

Carl N. Poole, 1212 W. Prospect Ave., has been named to fill the newly created position of public relations manager for Aid Association for Lutherans, it was announced by Walter L. Rugland, AAL president.

Public relations will be a department of the staff services, a division headed by T. H. Hartman. Other subdivisions under staff services at AAL include personnel administration and planning.

Rugland said, "The growth of the Aid Association for Lutherans in recent years has placed an increasing demand upon our requirements to keep our public informed of our policies and actions." The AAL has over 615,000 members and operates in 44 states, the District of Columbia, and five Canadian provinces.

Poole, a former vice president and director of Jacobson Advertising, Inc., Sheboygan, was an account executive and copy writer in the Appleton office of The Brady Company from 1957 to 1960.

Industry Tries To Reassure Stockholders

Confidence Shaken By Recent Furores On Business Ethics

BY SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Industry in general and individual companies separately are taking steps to reassure the public on two points that have shaken confidence in business ethics in recent months:

1. Conflict of interest, where a company official may be putting his own gain ahead of his company's.
2. Antitrust conspiracies, where executives of competing companies may get together to fix prices to the purchaser's loss.

General Rules

General rules of ethics are being formulated—one by businessmen at the request of Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges, and others by business groups on their own. The Controllers Institute of America, for example, is issuing a list of helpful hints on how to keep out of conflict of interest trouble.

Corporations are restating, or drawing up, policies against violations of conflict of interest or of antitrust laws, and impressing these upon their executives and other employees.

Buying Inside

An example of conflict of interest is where an official is in position to buy from a supplying firm in which he holds stock, or which gives him a kickback for the favor.

At a number of annual meetings, this spring, company chiefs have gone out of their way to reassure stockholders that their management was doing all possible to see that their company didn't get involved in furores like those that have caused trouble for some others.

Take the Jersey Standard Oil meeting in Boston Wednesday. There the president, M. J. Rathbone, took note of these matters "receiving wide attention from stockholders this year." He assured Jersey shareholders that:

- Some Requirements
1. "Every director, officer, senior officer, senior executive, and other key employee is required to sign a statement each year...that neither he, nor any dependent member of his family, has interest which would violate" the company's policy against any conflict of interest.
 2. "A clear, written policy (against violation of antitrust laws) has been disseminated widely...and is followed up by repeated verbal instructions and discussions with responsible executive employees."

The Controllers Institute of America takes the stand that the company controller or treasurer may be the logical executive to police such matters. So it has drawn up a report on how to cope with conflict of interest problems.

Two Levels

The report says the problem arises at two levels—the board of directors, and the operating staff. Four steps it urges companies to take are:

1. Issue a clear statement of policy.
2. Define possible areas of conflict in relation to individual jobs.
3. Distribute a questionnaire for individuals to fill in.
4. Establish uniform and logical procedures for dealing with any conflicts of interest that the survey may disclose.

David Hall, Green Bay, ponders the accident which left him permanently disabled five years ago. Just a month away from his 20th birthday in 1955, David was tossed from the convertible in which he was riding. He will never walk again and spent a year regaining the use of the upper part of his body.

Green Bay Youth Recalls Accident Which Permanently Disabled Him

Just One Month From 20th Birthday He Was Tossed From Speeding Auto, Paralyzed

BY BOB KNAUS
Post-Crescent News Service

"I remember I was sitting next to the driver, with my knees drawn up on the seat and my back against the right front door. When I felt the car swerve, I turned my head just in time to see the right front fender burst up in front of me.

"The next thing I knew, I was flying through the air, hitting the ground somersaulting and rolling at what seemed a fantastic speed. I remember my arms and legs were hitting the ground at odd angles, almost like a rag doll, but for some reason this did not seem to hurt me.

"As I slowed down, I remember saying to myself, 'Dave, if you just don't hit a tree, you're going to get out of this O.K. When I finally stopped rolling, I was lying on my back looking straight up at the sky. I remember I had such a wonderful feeling of relief that I thanked God for not being hurt. For a few seconds I just stayed there, saying thank you over and over.

Blood Spilling Out

"Then I noticed my right hand lying on my chest was bleeding. It looked as though the back of my hand had been torn open and the blood was spilling out on my T-shirt. I tried to move my arm, so as to get a better look at it, but, to my surprise, found I couldn't move the hand off my chest."

At this point, David Hall, just a month away from his 20th birthday, learned he had been injured in an automobile accident. Hall later learned that his entire body below the neck would be paralyzed for life. Hall's description of the traffic accident which robbed him of his

Joseph Mucha Found Dead

Well Known Neenah Aquatic Plants

NEENAH — Joseph Mucha, 67, 141 N. Lake St., Neenah, grower of aquatic plants and well-known coin collector, was found dead at home at 12:09 p.m. Sunday.

Winnebago County Coroner Dr. G. A. Steele said death was due to natural causes.

Mucha was best known for aquatic plants which he planted, and harvested on Little Lake Butte des Morts and his one-man fight against the Bergstrom Paper Co. in the early 1950s.

He was opposed to building of a retaining wall and dumping of treated waste materials from Bergstrom Paper Co., claiming this would ruin his business. He carried his fight to the then Gov. Walter Kohler without success.

Mucha was born in Austria, March 9, 1894, and came to the United States in 1924 after having fought with the Austrian army in World War I.

He started raising aquatic foods after recovering from a back injury received while working for the Kimberly - Clark Corp.

He lived alone and is survived by two daughters. Funeral arrangements are being handled by Westgor Funeral home.

Polish Reds Ban Parades By Catholics

BY GEORGE SYVERTSEN

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Polish communist regime has banned all Roman Catholic religious processions traditionally held after the Corpus Christi holy day, a government spokesman said today.

The spokesman said processions will be permitted this year only on Corpus Christi day, June 1, not during the eight-day period following the feast day as has been traditional.

The government ban was based on a recent instruction of the Vatican Congregation of Rites abolishing liturgical observances following the Corpus Christi celebrations. The ban appeared certain to touch off a new stage of conflict in the bitter church-state struggle in Poland.

Stefan Cardinal Wyszyński, Roman Catholic primate of Poland, has publicly disputed the government's interpretation of the Vatican reform measure, saying it does not apply to traditional processions during the Corpus Christi period. But communist party sources said the government intends to enforce strictly the ban on processions.

They said it was unlikely police would interfere with any processions held in defiance of the ban but that organizers of such illegal processions would be prosecuted.

Under Polish law, church parishes wishing to hold observances in public places must have permission from local authorities. Local police officials were reported to have denied all applications for permission for processions on any day but Corpus Christi.

Church sources were unavailable for comment today but previously they indicated such a move was expected and that the church would protest on all levels against it.

3-Year-Old Girl Drowns at Fox Lake

FOX LAKE, Wis. (AP)—Jane Sherek, 3, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sherek of North Fond du Lac, drowned Sunday in Fox Lake when she apparently fell off the end of a dock.

The body was recovered in about four feet of water at the end of a pier at the Harold Hoenke cottage, where the Sherek family had been visiting.

Johnny Can Give Dad Lessons in Complicated Science, Mathematics

BY CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK —(UPI)— Some handle simple scientific equipment people say Johnny's writing and without difficulty," says Samuel spelling may leave a lot to be desired. But he can give his father a New York City schools.

Five-year-old children are given 20 minutes a day of simple explanations of magnets—how they pick up objects containing iron, are added to the three Rs in the space and atomic age.

Kindergarten children are learning how magnets work as well as the art of stacking building blocks into neat patterns. Fourth graders are taught about static electricity as well as long division.

Learn About Magnets

Algebra is a featured course in the eighth grade, and by the time Junior is a high school senior, he is likely to be delving enthusiastically into the intricacies of "the intuitive introduction to probability."

Many educators say science now must be included in the entire teaching curriculum, from kindergarten through 12th grade.

British Comic In Hollywood For New Film

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Terry-Thomas is here, hypnotized, rapt, with a gap and all.

Terry-Thomas

Tashlin does a rave over T-T. "He is a magnificent clown. He can even take a prat fall with dignity."

The name Terry-Thomas needs to be explained. He was born Thomas Terry Hoar Stevens.

"When I started thinking of a stage name, I considered Thomas Terry, but discarded it for fear I would be presumed to be a member of the Terry family," he explained, referring to the English stage clan.

Double Name

He adopted Terry-Thomas and shows mild annoyance when he is called Terry or Mr. Thomas. Friends refer to him as Tom or T-T, old friends as Mot, backward spelling of Tom.

About the gap. It stretches several millimeters between his upper front teeth and lends to his comic appearance.

So influential has this feature been that he called his autobiography "Filling the Gap."

"My family never considered orthodontics," he said. "All the females in my family have the gap, so it wasn't considered unusual. I suppose if I were a romantic type of actor, I would have done something about it. But as a boy I considered myself the Erich von Stroheim type and was always posing with a watch crystal in my eye."

cycles at the age of 6, they can study. The science teachers got together and established a curriculum that begins in kindergarten with "living things," "the sky" and "man," and advances to after-school high school courses in astronomy, geology, marine biology, abstract mathematics and biochemistry.

Subjects such as "intuitive introduction to probability" and "the laws of chance for repeated trials—the binomial distribution" are taught in a math-science summer seminar for a hand-picked few Santa Barbara, Calif., high school seniors. From 8 to 9 a. m., they study a statistics textbook. The next hour is devoted to individual projects. Afternoons are spent reporting in groups and consulting with scientist-advisers.

Kingston Trio Breaking Up

Difference of Ideas Over Pop, Serious Songs Causes Split

BY BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Why would three young fellows take the ax to a golden goose that has been bringing them a million dollars a year?

That's what folks have been asking since the announcement that the Kingston Trio is breaking up. The news came with a terse "conflict of interests" explanation, which didn't explain much.

The split is puzzling not only because the Kingstons are one of the greatest successes in recent pop show business, but also because they have always displayed the greatest of affability onstage.

Major Issue

The major issue appears to be this: Dave Guard, crew-cut leader of the trio, wants to aim toward better music.

Handsome Bob Shane and stubbly Nick Reynolds, plus the trio's bearded manager, Frank Werber, want to stick to the pop songs that made them famous.

Speaking from his Palo Alto home, Guard said: "Our problem is a matter of ambition—where we want to go and how we get there. I want to make good music. The other two aren't dedicated musicians. I feel very strongly about this; otherwise I wouldn't be turning away a huge guarantee."

Speaking for the other camp, from his San Francisco office was manager Werber: "It's a matter of selection of material. Dave feels his whole interest is music, and he is very scholarly about it. The other two are more happy-go-lucky. They'd rather do the simple songs. When we started out, the organization was fairly democratic. But it has gotten to the point of Dave forcing his will, so to speak."

James Saphier, the Kingston's Hollywood mentor who first took them to Capitol Records, observed: "In every act, there has to be a take-charge guy. That has always been Dave. It is not unusual that the other two would develop a conflict with him. "But they have a long cooling-off period and I think they might patch it up."

Antique Lamp Display Opens At State Historical Society

When lamps were first introduced in America, some people still mounted them in candle holders.

The first in a series of decorative arts exhibits now at the State Historical Society in Madison includes an antique lamp used in this way. Designed with a peg to fit into a candlestick, peg lamps such as this one made the transition from candles to whale oil lamps, and were later used with kerosene.

The 50 antique lamps are the private collection of Mr. and Mrs. William Sanders. Fond du Lac, Wis., is a member of the society's women's auxiliary which is planning the decorative arts series.

Others in Collection

The idea for the early lamps is said to have originated with Ben Franklin who used a cork stopper with a wick placed in a bottle. Lamps using whale oil, lard oil, or a combination of alcohol and turpentine were used for lighting until the discovery of kerosene just after 1850.

Marlon Brando is Both Star and director of the movie, "One-Eyed Jacks," which opens Tuesday at the Viking Theater. The movie is a romantic adventure story set in California during the 1880s. Co-starring with Brando in the film are Karl Malden and the Mexican actresses Katy Jurado and Pina Pellicer.

Old Moguls Gone

Film Industry Ill With Lack Of New Executive Personnel

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A major lack of stars, is the scarcity of creative talent behind the camera.

Two film makers have done something about it. They are William Perlberg and George Seaton, partners for 24 years in making films like "Miracle on 34th St.," "Country Girl," "The Bridges at Toko-Ri" and the forthcoming "Pleasure of His Company" and "Counterfeit Trail."

Marlon Brando Film Coming to Viking Theater

Academy Award-winner Marlon Brando makes his debut as a director in the movie "One-Eyed Jacks," which opens Tuesday at the Viking Theater.

The romantic adventure drama was three years in the making and was filmed in both Death Valley and at Monterey, Calif. It's an adaptation of Charles Neider's popular novel about California during the 1880s, "The Authentic Death of Hendry Jones."

As director, Brando participated personally in every aspect of the production of the movie, from casting to costuming. He is the star of the film and featured with him as co-stars are Karl Malden, Katy Jurado and Pina Pellicer, a young actress discovered on television in her native Mexico City. The film tells a powerful story of friendship, love and revenge. The music, including the "One-Eyed Jacks" love theme, is by Hugo Friedhofer.

Practical Joke Catapults 4 to Fame, Fortune

Folk Singers Known Only to Washington Campus 2 Years Ago

BY HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Somebody should play a joke on you, and make you rich.

It can happen.

A prank phone call by a coed two years ago has led to a million-dollar-plus career for four musical-minded members of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity at the University of Seattle.

Now internationally famous in the younger folk-song set, "The Brothers Four" are a bit bedazzled by a quick success, but aren't swept off their feet by it. Right now, as perhaps the hottest and newest group of performers in the college entertainment circuit, they are eternally grateful to Alexander Graham Bell.

Campus Favorites

The four, all between the ages of 21 and 23, are Dick Foley, Mike Kirkland, John Paine, and Bob Flick.

They are a vocal group but they all help in accompanying themselves on stringed instruments.

In 1959, they were Seattle campus favorites when a phone call changed their lives. A joking coed, called, said she was the secretary of a Seattle club, and invited them to show up for an audition.

They did. The kind-hearted club manager, who had never heard of them, listened to them and gave them their first break.

"We got dinner for ourselves and our dates, plus a lot of encouragement—mostly from our dates," said Mike.

The boys then got an engagement at the well known "hungry 17" club in San Francisco at $50 a night for the group. That was their springboard to national attention.

Since then they have made four albums and a single recording that has sold a million platters. They have appeared on a dozen television shows, traveled nearly half a million miles to perform at 300 colleges in all the states of the Union except Alaska and Hawaii.

They made from $2,500 a concert on up.

Resting now from their long strain, the four are vacationing, assembling new material, taking summer courses to gain college degrees, and planning an international tour.

The boys work together to write the words and music of old folk tunes in their own style.

Tea Room for Tea Only

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — South Korea's new military government today decreed that the nation's tea rooms are for tea only. A ban on selling coffee in tea rooms was ordered in the revolutionary government's austerity campaign. Retail selling of coffee, considered a luxury here, also was prohibited.
